Dear University of Oregon Colleagues,

You are being sent this message based on your affiliation with the University of Oregon.

In times of crisis, through a multidisciplinary, collaborative strategy, we can both take care of our community and continue our academic mission and research.

In a moment of shared need, UO has been proactive in offering opportunities for students, faculty, and staff to learn and grow, and for UO to learn and grow as one of America’s premier universities. Our success in these efforts has enabled us to continue to provide support and opportunity to our community in these challenging times.

In closing, when I started the job of provost and senior vice president in July 2019, I did so with the understanding that I was taking on a leadership role in the midst of a rapidly changing environment. We have worked hard to be nimble and agile in our response to this crisis.

In the face of this crisis, we have also taken action to support the University of Oregon and its mission. We have been proactive in offering opportunities for students, faculty, and staff to learn and grow, and for UO to learn and grow as one of America’s premier universities. Our success in these efforts has enabled us to continue to provide support and opportunity to our community in these challenging times.
