Dear University of Oregon colleagues,

I am writing to share some updates on a number of academic initiatives that we have been working on with great interest and enthusiasm. These initiatives represent unique opportunities to date University community members across disciplines and colleges, and they are helping us respond to shifting priorities and challenges.

The initiatives focus on areas of strength, growth, and potential related to the environment, innovation, diversity, social justice, and research. Each initiative builds on knowledge that the University of Oregon is a top research institution and a firm belief that we have so much to offer the world.

In closing, when I started the job of provost and senior vice president in July 2019, I did so with the firm belief that our role in society is more important than ever, but also that we must continuously work to redefine that role in the face of a future that seems to be rushing at us at a blistering pace. And in this I am confident we can meet these challenges and play a role in building a brighter future—in part because we remain a place where individuals and communities come together to make the world a better place.

Carlyn

P.S. The information about the initiatives can be found online: cschreck@uoregon.edu. Soon, we will unveil a website that encapsulates all the initiatives under one roof. If you have any questions or an interest in assisting this effort, please email me. If you have any questions or an interest in assisting this effort, please email me. If you have any questions or an interest in assisting this effort, please email me.

I am writing to share some updates on a number of academic initiatives that we have been working on with great interest and enthusiasm. These initiatives represent unique opportunities to date University community members across disciplines and colleges, and they are helping us respond to shifting priorities and challenges.

The initiatives focus on areas of strength, growth, and potential related to the environment, innovation, diversity, social justice, and research. Each initiative builds on knowledge that the University of Oregon is a top research institution and a firm belief that we have so much to offer the world.

In closing, when I started the job of provost and senior vice president in July 2019, I did so with the firm belief that our role in society is more important than ever, but also that we must continuously work to redefine that role in the face of a future that seems to be rushing at us at a blistering pace. And in this I am confident we can meet these challenges and play a role in building a brighter future—in part because we remain a place where individuals and communities come together to make the world a better place.

Carlyn

P.S. The information about the initiatives can be found online: cschreck@uoregon.edu. Soon, we will unveil a website that encapsulates all the initiatives under one roof. If you have any questions or an interest in assisting this effort, please email me. If you have any questions or an interest in assisting this effort, please email me. If you have any questions or an interest in assisting this effort, please email me.