Welcome, Angele DeLarge

Angele DeLarge served as the founding executive director of The Louisiana Partnership for Public Charter Schools—LAPCS—since 2012. Angele earned a master’s degree in education from Tulane University and a bachelor’s degree in political science from the University of New Orleans. She was appointed as the first dean of culture of Athlos Academy of New Orleans, a charter school that opened in 2017.

Angele brings an impressive combination of business, education, and community leadership experience. In her career as an executive, she has served on enough boards and advisory councils to fill five typewritten pages of her resume. His experience has included roles in online banking, electronics manufacturing, and the health care industry. Angele brings a wealth of leadership experience from her involvement with the New Orleans Charter School Recovery Authority and the Orleans Parish School Board. She also has served in a number of leadership roles in the charter school movement.

Angele is a native New Orleanian and her family has lived in the city for more than 200 years. Angele’s strong commitment to creating an excellent education for all children in New Orleans is tied to her personal values and her desire to create a livable and prosperous city for others.

Pete is a special education law and advocacy guru. Along with his wife, he runs the Orleans Parish School Board and will be filled with learning from the premier source of everything related to special education law. Pete is also a strong advocate for special education rights and needs in the New Orleans school system.

The intensive one-day workshop focused on helping schools complete the AFR, while also discussing the latest changes and requirements. The workshop included a presentation on the AFR process, tips for completing the form, and a Q&A session with experts in the field. Participants were also given the opportunity to work on their own forms and receive feedback from the facilitators.

After four years of leadership at LAPCS, Brady has strengthened our foothold and been a valuable asset to the organization. He has played a key role in the growth and development of the partnership, helping to expand its reach and impact.

Jefferson Parish. Athlos Academy opened its doors in 2017 and has quickly become a dependable voice with schools, districts, partner organizations, and elected officials.

The goal of the visits was to provide examples of the success of New Orleans public charter schools and how they are serving their districts and the children they serve.

LAPCS has spent the past six years developing a board recruiting and training program, building teacher pipelines, increasing organizational diversity, and growing. In addition, we have had such growth in our Bottom Line Program and our new Strategic Plan.

Finally, on a personal note, we have lots to celebrate with a few milestones. We are proud to announce that LAPCS has reached a membership milestone of 100 schools and that our Board of Directors has named Angele DeLarge as our new CEO.

We hope you'll join us to hear from you and plot a path forward. We look forward to working with you in the future!
