in working with Stanford medical students, please submit your Health Center-San Jose Fall Quarter 2021 kicked-off new Valley Fellows and their projects:

Annual Community Health Symposium on Wednesday, March 23, 2022, where they will present their project at Roots Community Health Center-San Jose.

Owen, Wei-ting Chen, Associate Director of Community Partnerships, highlights the importance of health equity and the role of community health centers in mitigating the impact of the pandemic. He emphasizes the need to act quickly and decisively to address the ongoing public health crisis, noting that the pandemic has had a disproportionate impact on vulnerable communities.

Wei-ting Chen: "The pandemic has underscored the importance of health equity and the role of community health centers in mitigating the impact of the pandemic. We must act quickly and decisively to address the ongoing public health crisis, noting that the pandemic has had a disproportionate impact on vulnerable communities."

The only way to combat COVID-19 is to vaccinate the community and provide access to vaccines locally and globally. It is crucial to remember the importance of vaccination and to stay the course with personal protective measures. Let's stay the course with personal protective measures.

Wei-ting Chen: "Let's stay the course with personal protective measures."

While we should be vigilant about the Omicron variant, it is also important to remember that the pandemic has transformed our daily lives in ways that we never thought possible. In-person conversations instead of interacting out of our little Zoom rectangles and slack channels just felt so much more... normal.

Wei-ting Chen: "While our festivities looked quite different from our last in-person celebration in 2019 (masks, social distancing, etc.), the pandemic has transformed our daily lives in ways that we never thought possible."
