MEMBERSHIP NEWS, TIPS & TRENDS

Ali Kaun of LC Tree Service Offers Free Masks to BOMA San Diego Members

When I had persuaded Mom to get out her old sewing machine and start this mask-making project, she wasn't sure if she could get her right foot to work. A three-time cancer survivor and Multiple Sclerosis diagnosis had left some questions in her mind regarding her body's capacities. But low and behold, fabrics started arriving, scissors started cutting and Mom's foot was pushing up and down on the sewing machine pedal without issue.

If you, your colleagues, or loved ones would like one of our hand-made fabric masks, please don't hesitate to reach out to us. We want to bless you with that, free of charge. Please email ali@lctrees.com to find out more information.

A Building Manager's Quick Guide to Indoor Air Quality | Duthie Power Services

For building managers, maintaining IAQ (indoor air quality) is breathing written on a large scale: few occupants ever notice that they depend on pure, healthy air until one day that air is not so pure anymore. The culprit could be fumes, cleaning chemicals, mold, mildew, dust, leftover construction particles, or any combination of the above. Whatever the pollutant, it leads to work-affecting health issues; in fact, air quality-related ailments lead to sick and tired employees, increased absenteeism, and up to 6% lower productivity.

Once our team and company was safe, the conversation changed. We began to look to the future and think about opportunities for our company to thrive in a post-

COVID-19 world, which also means living and working with enhanced sanitation protocols for the next year or more until a vaccine is developed.

Video chat is an efficient and effective way to meet new prospects and stay in touch with valued clients, friends and family as we all get through this crisis together.
