CINA 2021 Annual RFP Now Open for Submissions

The CINA Directors and the CINA Research and Training Laboratory team are pleased to announce the opening of the CINA 2021 Annual RFP and call for proposals. The purpose of this annual open competition is to advance research, training, and capacity building related to the mission of CINA. This year's competition seeks to support research and training activities that are aligned with four primary research themes. These themes are: Cybersecurity, Innovation, Economic Development, and Healthcare. The CINA Annual RFP seeks to support research and training activities that are aligned with the goals of CINA and the Schar School of Policy and Government. The CINA team encourages proposals that build on existing work and collaborations, and that contribute to the broader understanding of issues relevant to the CINA mission.
