CINA Annual RFP New for 2020-2021

CINA recently brought on Deanna Austin to head Workforce Development. Her presentation will focus on the impact of COVID-19 on the economy, security and defense.

Professor of Practice, William J. Perry Center for Hemispheric Studies, The National Defense University.

Save the date for our upcoming Distinguished Speaker Series

Spring 2021 Upcoming Events

CINA Distinguished Speaker Series

Distinguished Speaker Series

CINA Network

CINA recruits Deanna Austin in Workforce Development field

We are proud to support that mission and work, and we are happy to report two items related to CINA in the news this week. The Request for Proposals outlines the major areas of interest to CINA and our DHS sponsors, and we look forward to hearing about your research and ideas.

Deanna will be leading. Second, we released our annual RFP this week. The Request for Proposals proposes that applicants may focus on four research themes: Analysis at the undergraduate level and Counterintelligence-Denial and Deception at the graduate level.

The findings of this research will not only inform law enforcement, but also provide valuable information for future leaders in our field.

We are proud to support that mission and work, and we are happy to report two items related to CINA in the news this week. The Request for Proposals outlines the major areas of interest to CINA and our DHS sponsors, and we look forward to hearing about your research and ideas.

Deanna will be leading. Second, we released our annual RFP this week. The Request for Proposals proposes that applicants may focus on four research themes: Analysis at the undergraduate level and Counterintelligence-Denial and Deception at the graduate level.

The findings of this research will not only inform law enforcement, but also provide valuable information for future leaders in our field.

We are proud to support that mission and work, and we are happy to report two items related to CINA in the news this week. The Request for Proposals outlines the major areas of interest to CINA and our DHS sponsors, and we look forward to hearing about your research and ideas.

Deanna will be leading. Second, we released our annual RFP this week. The Request for Proposals proposes that applicants may focus on four research themes: Analysis at the undergraduate level and Counterintelligence-Denial and Deception at the graduate level.

The findings of this research will not only inform law enforcement, but also provide valuable information for future leaders in our field.

We are proud to support that mission and work, and we are happy to report two items related to CINA in the news this week. The Request for Proposals outlines the major areas of interest to CINA and our DHS sponsors, and we look forward to hearing about your research and ideas.

Deanna will be leading. Second, we released our annual RFP this week. The Request for Proposals proposes that applicants may focus on four research themes: Analysis at the undergraduate level and Counterintelligence-Denial and Deception at the graduate level.

The findings of this research will not only inform law enforcement, but also provide valuable information for future leaders in our field.

We are proud to support that mission and work, and we are happy to report two items related to CINA in the news this week. The Request for Proposals outlines the major areas of interest to CINA and our DHS sponsors, and we look forward to hearing about your research and ideas.

Deanna will be leading. Second, we released our annual RFP this week. The Request for Proposals proposes that applicants may focus on four research themes: Analysis at the undergraduate level and Counterintelligence-Denial and Deception at the graduate level.

The findings of this research will not only inform law enforcement, but also provide valuable information for future leaders in our field.

We are proud to support that mission and work, and we are happy to report two items related to CINA in the news this week. The Request for Proposals outlines the major areas of interest to CINA and our DHS sponsors, and we look forward to hearing about your research and ideas.

Deanna will be leading. Second, we released our annual RFP this week. The Request for Proposals proposes that applicants may focus on four research themes: Analysis at the undergraduate level and Counterintelligence-Denial and Deception at the graduate level.

The findings of this research will not only inform law enforcement, but also provide valuable information for future leaders in our field.

We are proud to support that mission and work, and we are happy to report two items related to CINA in the news this week. The Request for Proposals outlines the major areas of interest to CINA and our DHS sponsors, and we look forward to hearing about your research and ideas.

Deanna will be leading. Second, we released our annual RFP this week. The Request for Proposals proposes that applicants may focus on four research themes: Analysis at the undergraduate level and Counterintelligence-Denial and Deception at the graduate level.

The findings of this research will not only inform law enforcement, but also provide valuable information for future leaders in our field.

We are proud to support that mission and work, and we are happy to report two items related to CINA in the news this week. The Request for Proposals outlines the major areas of interest to CINA and our DHS sponsors, and we look forward to hearing about your research and ideas.

Deanna will be leading. Second, we released our annual RFP this week. The Request for Proposals proposes that applicants may focus on four research themes: Analysis at the undergraduate level and Counterintelligence-Denial and Deception at the graduate level.

The findings of this research will not only inform law enforcement, but also provide valuable information for future leaders in our field.

We are proud to support that mission and work, and we are happy to report two items related to CINA in the news this week. The Request for Proposals outlines the major areas of interest to CINA and our DHS sponsors, and we look forward to hearing about your research and ideas.

Deanna will be leading. Second, we released our annual RFP this week. The Request for Proposals proposes that applicants may focus on four research themes: Analysis at the undergraduate level and Counterintelligence-Denial and Deception at the graduate level.

The findings of this research will not only inform law enforcement, but also provide valuable information for future leaders in our field.

We are proud to support that mission and work, and we are happy to report two items related to CINA in the news this week. The Request for Proposals outlines the major areas of interest to CINA and our DHS sponsors, and we look forward to hearing about your research and ideas.

Deanna will be leading. Second, we released our annual RFP this week. The Request for Proposals proposes that applicants may focus on four research themes: Analysis at the undergraduate level and Counterintelligence-Denial and Deception at the graduate level.

The findings of this research will not only inform law enforcement, but also provide valuable information for future leaders in our field.