A Moment in Which the Mind Is Brought Within the Heart

When I ask myself what quality we can offer the world to navigate these transformative times, this image comes to mind. A moment in which the mind is brought within the heart, with a quality of love which is so powerful and deep it could barely be heard, and yet, at the same time, his presence filled the room. He was speaking softly that I could barely hear the words, and yet, at the same time, his presence filled the room. He was speaking gently, and yet, at the same time, his presence filled the room.

Maha Ghosananda

Maha Ghosananda taught me to express gratitude to the six directions, thanking all of our relations: parents, teachers, friends, and others. I am grateful for all of you. Thank you for your support and guidance. As a volunteer, you decide which weeks you are able to serve. We will have this shift 6:10 a.m. in front of the LGBT Center. Volunteers travel together and we will send new folks with returners to offer support and guidance.
