Dear School Pride of our teens

I hope this message finds you well. I just wanted to update you on some important events happening at George Mason University. As you know, the university will conduct its 54th Spring Commencement virtually. The ceremony is set for 2 p.m. on May 14, 2021. All the Lot L Mini Ceremonies will be streamed on May 10, 2021, at 10 a.m.

Dr. Thomas Lovejoy, a Senior Fellow, has conducted environmental research in the Brazilian Amazon for over 40 years. He became the first Mason College of Science faculty inducted into the National Academy of Sciences.

Join this interdisciplinary conversation with Dr. Rhonda V. Sharpe, president of the Women's Institute for Science, Equity, and Race. The event is scheduled for May 5, 2021, from 1 to 3 p.m.

There's still time to vote in the Mason Science Faculty Election. Deadline to vote is May 5, 2021.

Don't forget to participate and vote in the Mason Science Faculty Election. This year will be College of Science faculty, honored for their impactful career of work. Congratulations to Padhu Seshaiyer, Professor and Associate Dean of Research, for being awarded the Outstanding Partnership, Project and Collaboration Award from SAIL at Mason.

The university has received honorable mentions for a research study led by Jennifer Salerno, Assistant Professor in the Department of Environmental Science and Policy. This research is funded by the GMU COVID-19 Fund and leverages RNA, an efficient way to catch COVID-19 outbreaks early. Researchers test Mason wastewater to detect and monitor outbreaks early.

To conclude Earth Month and celebrate Arbor Day, Mason Science highlights ESP Professor and Associate Dean of Research, Padhu Seshaiyer, for his work on Making Peace with Nature. This research is led by Padhu Seshaiyer, Assistant Professor in the Department of Environmental Science and Policy.

If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to reach out.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]