Go behind the scenes of the 2016 Faculty Show with "Gallery Guy"

Gallery Guy Talks

CIA's Faculty Exhibition and Technical Specialist Exhibition comes to a close Oct. 9. If you haven't had a chance to walk through the galleries yet, or you live out of the area, you can still check out the impressive artwork and take a deeper dive into the show with "Gallery Guy" Bruce Checefsky in his interviews with faculty members Nancy McEntee, Maggie Denk-Leigh, Seth Nagelberg, Kevin Kautenburger, and Sarah Kabot; Dan Cuffaro and Lane Cooper; and Petra Soesemann and Tina Cassara. Feel free to binge now.

Alumni Survey update

Thank you to all alumni that completed our survey! We are grateful for your feedback. We are compiling the results and will share them in the next e-newsletter. If you requested a CIA window decal, it will be on its way soon!

Job opportunity for designers: YETI

Yeti Careers

YETI: Like a mad scientist's lab, but with bears*

Thoughtful design is at the heart of every YETI product. It's so much a part of who we are that we're opening up a state-of-the-art design studio next year, fully equipped with community work spaces, presentation facilities, and mock up areas. It's also why we recently launched the Innovation Center, outfitted with a full assortment of equipment for rapid prototyping and testing since we know our customers push our products to the extremes. And our testing facility allows our products go through the ringer, for all those never-in-a-million-years-except-this-one-time scenarios. Did we also mention our new HQ (opening in 2017) has an on-site gym and cafeteria?

We're looking for more designers to join us, and we have a feeling you might know some. Check out our current job openings at YETI.com/careers to apply, and we'll be in touch if you're the right fit for any of our roles.

Stay wild.

*Not live bears, per se, but definitely some bear-type simulators

Exhibition Watch

We are excited to announce Exhibition Watch, a new feature on our website that is now available to the CIA community, including alumni, faculty, staff, and students! The "Exhibition Watch" tool is an easy-to-use form that gives you the opportunity to send us the details of your show, along with images of your work, to be showcased on the CIA website. Also, once your exhibition is online it's super easy to share to Facebook and Twitter by clicking on the built-in social media share buttons. It's a great way to get details of your exhibitions out to the CIA community and to stay connected with one another! Check out our Exhibition Watch page here.
