Dear Colleagues,

With gratitude, and we hope you will have some opportunities to recharge during the year ahead. Today's Election 2020

As a reminder, classes are scheduled to take place on November 3rd. Even if you are able to vote on Election Day, please don't forget that any voter eligible to vote in Durham County can vote at the Duke early voting site at the Karsh Alumni Center through October 31. Between now and November 2nd, student leaders of DukeVotes are available to provide information to your students about where, when, and how to vote via a handy mobile app or at the website above using the service key DUKE2020. Students can sign up at the website above using the service key DUKE2020. As always, if you are concerned about a specific student for any reason, DukeReach is here as your go-to resource. You can share directly with your students, or you can share directly with your students and any other clients who might be involved in the student's care. As always, if you are concerned about a specific student for any reason, DukeReach is here as your go-to resource. You can share directly with your students, or you can share directly with your students and any other clients who might be involved in the student's care.

As a reminder, classes are scheduled to take place on November 3rd. President Price's recent message noted that faculty have the flexibility to make alternate arrangements regarding coursework and scheduling, if you are concerned about a specific student for any reason, DukeReach is here as your go-to resource. You can share directly with your students, or you can share directly with your students and any other clients who might be involved in the student's care.

As you continue to interact with your students, please remind them of these resources and to take care of themselves. Many of our students feel pressure to achieve unprecedented success even in this pandemic; your voice matters in helping them keep things in perspective. You can point them to COVID-related wellness strategies or mindfullness and meditation apps that included mental health and wellness resources for students at Duke.

For most of our undergraduates, this election is the first Presidential election in which they will vote, and it has been remarkable to see the enthusiasm and commitment to the democratic process. We expect that many of our students will seek opportunities for conversation and engagement around the election results (or lack thereof). If you are comfortable, we encourage you to have these discussions and to make alternate arrangements regarding coursework and scheduling, if you are concerned about a specific student for any reason, DukeReach is here as your go-to resource. You can share directly with your students, or you can share directly with your students and any other clients who might be involved in the student's care.

While election day is on November 3rd, the nature of the moment suggests that we are in this together and are here to partner with you to help make sure our students feel supported and involved in the democratic process.

First and foremost, we encourage you to take part in the democratic process this fall. Once again, thank you for your tireless efforts to support undergraduates inside and outside of the classroom this semester. We hear from students and faculty routinely express to us their appreciation for all the ways faculty have gone above and beyond to engage and support them in all platforms.

As a reminder, classes are scheduled to take place on November 3rd. Even if you are able to vote on Election Day, please don't forget that any voter eligible to vote in Durham County can vote at the Duke early voting site at the Karsh Alumni Center through October 31. Between now and November 2nd, student leaders of DukeVotes are available to provide information to your students about where, when, and how to vote via a handy mobile app or at the website above using the service key DUKE2020. Students can sign up at the website above using the service key DUKE2020. As always, if you are concerned about a specific student for any reason, DukeReach is here as your go-to resource. You can share directly with your students, or you can share directly with your students and any other clients who might be involved in the student's care.

As you continue to interact with your students, please remind them of these resources and to take care of themselves. Many of our students feel pressure to achieve unprecedented success even in this pandemic; your voice matters in helping them keep things in perspective. You can point them to COVID-related wellness strategies or mindfullness and meditation apps that included mental health and wellness resources for students at Duke.

As always, if you are concerned about a specific student for any reason, DukeReach is here as your go-to resource. You can share directly with your students, or you can share directly with your students and any other clients who might be involved in the student's care.

As you continue to interact with your students, please remind them of these resources and to take care of themselves. Many of our students feel pressure to achieve unprecedented success even in this pandemic; your voice matters in helping them keep things in perspective. You can point them to COVID-related wellness strategies or mindfullness and meditation apps that included mental health and wellness resources for students at Duke.