Dear College Staff,

This email is to inform you that you and your loved ones are safe and well. With the election season approaching, we are writing to offer a few timely reminders about the election and its impact on all of us.

First, thank you for your continued efforts to support students through this unprecedented time. We hope you and your loved ones are safe and well.

With gratitude,

Vice President/Vice Provost of Student Affairs
Mary Pat McMahon
Vice Provost of Undergraduate Education
Gary Bennett

To our students,

With the election season underway, we encourage you to take advantage of Duke's resources and events to support your well-being.

Duke offers numerous resources to support well-being, including:

- The Personal Assistance Service (PAS) provides confidential assistance to students in times of need, offering a range of support services.
- DukeReach offers two types of trained wellness representatives: TalkNow (24/7, talk about anything) and Scheduled Counseling. These services are available to all Duke students.
- The Duke Wellness Connection offers a variety of resources for students, faculty, and staff, including mental health support, career counseling, and academic support.

As an election season reminder, please take advantage of these resources to support yourselves and your peers. We encourage you to connect with your campus community and seek support when needed.

We hope this note finds you and your loved ones safe and well. With gratitude for all that you continue to do.

Sincerely,

Duke University
