Dear Colleagues,

Thank you for all that you do and your devoted service. With the end of the semester approaching, we are writing to offer a few timely reminders.

First, thank you for your continued efforts to support undergraduate inside and outside of the classroom this term. We hear students routinely express to us their appreciation for all the ways faculty have gone above and beyond to engage and offer support in all platforms. This fall, we continue to see you go above and beyond to meet additional responsibilities outside of your teaching and we share the students’ gratitude.

Second, thank you, and our thanks, to Vice President Mary Pat McMahon for supporting the decision to move to an extended winter break period.

In the past, many of you have gone to extraordinary lengths to support our students’ intellectual, emotional, and physical wellbeing. We truly appreciate your efforts.

Today’s Election 2020

While election day is on November 3rd, the nature of the moment suggests that we take a longer view than is customary on the electoral process that you can share with your students. Please don’t forget that any voter eligible to vote in Durham County can vote on the 2nd, and early voting continues until November 2nd. Students can sign up at the website above using the service key DUKE2020. Students can also sign up at the website above using the service key DUKE2020.

Keep Learning

With the extended winter break period, we encourage you to take advantage of the Keep Learning page that includes instructional videos, best practices, and a convenient way for Duke students to receive no-cost counseling. The Keep Learning page includes a searchable list of resources that offer support in areas ranging from academic challenges to mental health.

Faculty Mental Health and Wellness

As you continue to interact with your students, please remind them of these resources and to take care of themselves. Many students. As you continue to interact with your students, please remind them of these resources and to take care of themselves.

Faculty are under as much pressure this semester as anyone. We want you to know firsthand the stress you are facing, and we recognize that our students are facing unique challenges. First and foremost, we encourage you to take care of yourselves. We recommend that we take a longer view than is customary on the electoral process that you can share with your students.

As a reminder, courses are scheduled to take place on November 3rd. President Price’s recent message noted that faculty have the flexibility to make instructional adjustments and we encourage you to take steps that support student participation in the democratic process.

For most of our undergraduates, this election is the first Presidential cycle in which they can vote, and it has been a remarkable moment of student engagement around voting. The 2020 election has been dicult for all of us. As we approach the end of the term, we hope you will find the information and reminders oered below to be helpful and timely.

Student Mental Health and Wellness

While election day is on November 3rd, we encourage you to take advantage of the Keep Learning page that includes instructional videos, best practices, and useful background information. Please encourage students to take advantage of the Keep Learning page that includes instructional videos, best practices, and a convenient way for Duke students to receive no-cost counseling. The Keep Learning page includes a searchable list of resources that offer support in areas ranging from academic challenges to mental health.

As you approach the end of the term, we hope you will find the information and reminders oered below to be helpful and timely.

Resources for Faculty, Students, and the Election

First, thank you for all that you do and your devoted service. With the end of the semester approaching, we are writing to offer a few timely reminders.

First, thank you for your continued efforts to support undergraduate inside and outside of the classroom this term. We hear students routinely express to us their appreciation for all the ways faculty have gone above and beyond to engage and offer support in all platforms. This fall, we continue to see you go above and beyond to meet additional responsibilities outside of your teaching and we share the students’ gratitude.

Second, thank you, and our thanks, to Vice President Mary Pat McMahon for supporting the decision to move to an extended winter break period.

In the past, many of you have gone to extraordinary lengths to support our students’ intellectual, emotional, and physical wellbeing. We truly appreciate your efforts.

Today’s Election 2020

While election day is on November 3rd, the nature of the moment suggests that we take a longer view than is customary on the electoral process that you can share with your students. Please don’t forget that any voter eligible to vote in Durham County can vote on the 2nd, and early voting continues until November 2nd. Students can sign up at the website above using the service key DUKE2020. Students can also sign up at the website above using the service key DUKE2020.

Keep Learning

With the extended winter break period, we encourage you to take advantage of the Keep Learning page that includes instructional videos, best practices, and a convenient way for Duke students to receive no-cost counseling. The Keep Learning page includes a searchable list of resources that offer support in areas ranging from academic challenges to mental health.

Faculty Mental Health and Wellness

As you continue to interact with your students, please remind them of these resources and to take care of themselves. Many students. As you continue to interact with your students, please remind them of these resources and to take care of themselves.

Faculty are under as much pressure this semester as anyone. We want you to know firsthand the stress you are facing, and we recognize that our students are facing unique challenges. First and foremost, we encourage you to take care of yourselves. We recommend that we take a longer view than is customary on the electoral process that you can share with your students.

As a reminder, courses are scheduled to take place on November 3rd. President Price’s recent message noted that faculty have the flexibility to make instructional adjustments and we encourage you to take steps that support student participation in the democratic process.

For most of our undergraduates, this election is the first Presidential cycle in which they can vote, and it has been a remarkable moment of student engagement around voting. The 2020 election has been dicult for all of us. As we approach the end of the term, we hope you will find the information and reminders oered below to be helpful and timely.

Student Mental Health and Wellness

While election day is on November 3rd, we encourage you to take advantage of the Keep Learning page that includes instructional videos, best practices, and useful background information. Please encourage students to take advantage of the Keep Learning page that includes instructional videos, best practices, and a convenient way for Duke students to receive no-cost counseling. The Keep Learning page includes a searchable list of resources that offer support in areas ranging from academic challenges to mental health.

As you approach the end of the term, we hope you will find the information and reminders oered below to be helpful and timely.

Resources for Faculty, Students, and the Election

First, thank you for all that you do and your devoted service. With the end of the semester approaching, we are writing to offer a few timely reminders.

First, thank you for your continued efforts to support undergraduate inside and outside of the classroom this term. We hear students routinely express to us their appreciation for all the ways faculty have gone above and beyond to engage and offer support in all platforms. This fall, we continue to see you go above and beyond to meet additional responsibilities outside of your teaching and we share the students’ gratitude.

Second, thank you, and our thanks, to Vice President Mary Pat McMahon for supporting the decision to move to an extended winter break period.

In the past, many of you have gone to extraordinary lengths to support our students’ intellectual, emotional, and physical wellbeing. We truly appreciate your efforts.

Today’s Election 2020

While election day is on November 3rd, the nature of the moment suggests that we take a longer view than is customary on the electoral process that you can share with your students. Please don’t forget that any voter eligible to vote in Durham County can vote on the 2nd, and early voting continues until November 2nd. Students can sign up at the website above using the service key DUKE2020. Students can also sign up at the website above using the service key DUKE2020.

Keep Learning

With the extended winter break period, we encourage you to take advantage of the Keep Learning page that includes instructional videos, best practices, and useful background information. Please encourage students to take advantage of the Keep Learning page that includes instructional videos, best practices, and a convenient way for Duke students to receive no-cost counseling. The Keep Learning page includes a searchable list of resources that offer support in areas ranging from academic challenges to mental health.

Faculty Mental Health and Wellness

As you approach the end of the term, we hope you will find the information and reminders oered below to be helpful and timely.

Student Mental Health and Wellness

While election day is on November 3rd, we encourage you to take advantage of the Keep Learning page that includes instructional videos, best practices, and useful background information. Please encourage students to take advantage of the Keep Learning page that includes instructional videos, best practices, and a convenient way for Duke students to receive no-cost counseling. The Keep Learning page includes a searchable list of resources that offer support in areas ranging from academic challenges to mental health.

As you approach the end of the term, we hope you will find the information and reminders oered below to be helpful and timely.