CINA Science Committee Spotlight: Mary Ellen O'Toole

Biometric Identity Privacy

A person's identity can be national, biographical or social. A person's identity is recognized, useful and protected only by putting it in context, whether through social or legal framework, cultural or institutional framework, or economic framework. As we live in an age of hyperconnected global networks, we can no longer rely on physical landmarks to protect our personal data. In the digital age, identity privacy is an important concept, but it is also a difficult one to protect.

A person's identity can be national, biographical or social. A person's identity is recognized, useful and protected only by putting it in context, whether through social or legal framework, cultural or institutional framework, or economic framework. As we live in an age of hyperconnected global networks, we can no longer rely on physical landmarks to protect our personal data. In the digital age, identity privacy is an important concept, but it is also a difficult one to protect.

For more information, please visit our website.

DIFFERENTIATED SPEAKER SERIES

Gretchen Peters: "How Organized Crime Weaponized Social Media" - Wednesday, October 27 - Hybrid, In-person

Tune in on November 11, 2021 at 12:00 p.m. when Marie Tillyer, Professor of Criminology & Criminal Justice at the University of Texas at San Antonio discusses open source data and predictive modeling to uncover the indicators of high-density crime areas. This event will be completely virtual.

Lindsey Robertson: Human Trafficking – Tuesday, December 14 - Hybrid, In-person

Join us on Tuesday, December 14th at 12:30p.m when Gretchen Peters, Executive Director of The Center on Illicit Networks and Transnational Organized Crime who will speak about her organization's work on the way organized crime has weaponized social media. In-person attendance is on a first come first serve basis.

Visit our website for more information about upcoming events. Subscribe to our newsletter to view research and capabilities that will mitigate threats we have not yet seen. Staying on top means we must continue to look over the horizon, think critically and objectively, and invest in the tools and technologies that will allow us to win.

The CINA Center is four years old, the first DHS Center of Excellence was formed 17 years ago, DHS is almost 19 years old, and our constitution was written 234 years ago...and crime is still around us. The CINA Center is dedicated to solving today's challenges while also thinking about, and acting on, what's next.