CINA Works with 2020-21 Open RFP White Paper Submissions

I invite you to consider, open minds, leadership, focus, diligence, discipline, persistence, and also invoking our imagination and creativity to anticipate the problems of tomorrow and blunt their effects before they even materialize. Striking this balance requires thoughtful solutions with innovative approaches that solve problems better, faster, and cheaper, while also addressing the long-term trends that we know we need to address.

The obvious answer is by working together toward common goals, mixing tried and true with new and emerging ideas. The combined COE-DHS network is formidable, but if there is one thing we have all learned, it is that the common goals of safety and security for our people, our nation, and the world. The valuable partnership with DHS at all levels, we trust each other, and we are all working towards our ends.

There are related and complementary skills and expertise at the different centers, and we have learned when to join forces, when to share, and when to get out of each other's way. This is why we think the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) is the federal department that DHS is best positioned to be.
