Dear Tufts Community,

As I prepare for the coming season of fasting, prayer and inward reflection marked by Ramadan on the Islamic calendar, I find myself welcoming a season that embodies the idea that sometimes, less is more. What do I mean by that? Much of our lives are spent in accumulation – of degrees, experiences, accomplishments, and well, stuff. We acquire these things as rites of passage and often wear them as badges of honor. However, when Ramadan comes each year, I am reminded of the hollowness of this focus on accumulation, and of the richness available to us in the life of the soul. When we set out in the season of fasting with intention each day to consume less, to argue less, to waste less, to spend less time on the things that don’t matter – we often find that we feel more, we reflect more, we are present – more and more. And with presence comes both joy and pain, as we witness both the beauty of creation all around us as well as bear witness to the suffering.

This Ramadan in particular, when I feel the pangs of hunger arise throughout the day, I know my heart will travel like lightening to the places on this earth where hunger is brought on not by ritual fast, but by the ravages of war and the climate crisis. Palestine, Afghanistan, Sudan, Ethiopia, Somalia, Syria, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Yemen, Pakistan… the list seems to only grow longer each year. How do I make meaning of my fast alongside the endless hunger of others? How might this awareness change me, my priorities, and my actions?

While it’s true that Ramadan is known most for the food-related aspects – the abstaining from food from dawn to dusk and the breaking of the fast in the evening – as I look forward to Ramadan this year, I find myself seeking the deeper meanings embedded within it. How will I respond, internally, to this regimen of discipline and self-restraint? Will I allow it to awaken my heart and soul? Will I be able to access the higher levels of fasting, of nearness to God and increased awareness of and compassion for my fellow beings? Will I emerge from the month any different, any more alive, awake, and in tune with myself and my Creator? I hope so, inshallah (God willing).

I invite you to come and reflect on these questions with us and more at this year’s annual Interfaith Iftar, which will be held next Tuesday, March 12 at 7:00 p.m. in Breed Memorial Hall. We will share food as well as reflections on fasting and community. All are welcome. You can RSVP below to attend.

In peace,

True Colors: Dinner & Film Night
Thursday, March 7, 6:30 p.m. - 8:30 p.m., at the LGBT Center

Join True Colors, the University Chaplaincy's and the LGBT Center's Queerness and Spirituality Group, to watch and talk about My Name is Pauli Murray, an inspiring film about a pioneering non-binary activist, writer, priest, and lawyer who shaped landmark litigation—and consciousness—around race and gender equity. All are welcome. RSVPs appreciated. Please email Protestant Chaplain Dan Bell daniel.bell@tufts.edu with questions and to RSVP.
Restorative Islamic Theology

Friday, March 8, 2:00 p.m. - 3:00 p.m. Tufts Interfaith Center (58 Winthrop Street)

Join the Muslim Chaplaincy for a guest lecture by Imam Taymullah Abdur-Rahman on restorative Islamic Theology. At age twelve, Tyrone Suttone was a teen pop star with Perfect Gentlemen, scoring a top-ten hit and appearing on national TV shows. Despite success, he faced challenges upon returning home, becoming a teen father. Converting to Islam as Taymullah Abdur-Rahman, he worked as a chaplain in a maximum-security prison, later expanding his perspective through interreligious dialogue. Now, as an Imam and author, he advocates for prison abolition and racial justice, blending his unique journey with broader societal issues. All are welcome. RSVPs appreciated. Please email Muslim Chaplain Najiba Akbar with questions and to RSVP.

Decolonizing Practices in the Caribbean

Monday, March 11, 5:00 p.m. to 6:30 p.m., at the Africana Center (8 Professors Row)

This dialogue will delve into the concepts of coloniality of being and knowledge and the enduring legacies of colonialism that continue to shape the region. We will explore how coloniality has deeply ingrained itself in the collective psyche of the Afro-Caribbean community, impacting not only how knowledge is produced and disseminated but also the very essence of being. It will also shed light on the practices of resistance and reconstruction that Afro-Caribbean communities are actively engaging in to reclaim their histories, narratives, knowledge systems, spiritual traditions, and ways of being. For more information, contact Humanist Chaplain and Africana Spirituality Series coordinator, Anthony Cruz Pantojas.

Upcoming Religious Celebrations and Observances

These events are drawn from the multifaith calendar maintained by the Office of Religious and Spiritual Life at Harvard Divinity School. To see more upcoming religious holidays and festivals, please follow the link to the Harvard Divinity School calendar.

Nineteen Day Fast
Thu., Feb. 29 – Tue., Mar. 19, 2024
Tradition: Baha’i
A designated 19-day period of fasting each year immediately before the Bahá’í New Year. The fasting is seen as a period of spiritual preparation and regeneration for the new year ahead.

Maha Shivaratri
Fri., Mar. 8, 2024
Tradition: Hinduism
A feast dedicated to the Hindu deity Shiva. The night before the feast fasting is observed, texts are recited, songs are sung, and stories told in honor of this God whose cosmic dance creates, preserves, destroys, and recreates the world.

Ramadan
Mon., Mar. 11 – Wed., Apr. 10, 2024
Tradition: Islam
The Holy Month of Ramadan is the month of fasting during which Muslims who are physically able do not eat or drink from the first sign of dawn until sunset in honor of the first revelations to the Prophet Muhammad. The evening meal is celebrated with family.

Sri Ramakrishna Jayanti
Mon., Mar. 11, 2024
Tradition: Hinduism
Celebrates the birthday of Sri Ramakrishna, teacher of Swami Vivekananda.

Ghambar Hamaspathmaedem
Tradition: Zoroastrianism
Celebrates the creation of human beings and honors the souls of the deceased.

Great Lent
Mon., Mar. 18 – Sat., May 4, 2024
Tradition: Christianity-Orthodox
In Orthodox churches, the first day of Lent marks the beginning of the Great Fast, the final six weeks of a 10-week period leading up to Holy Week and Easter (Pascha). In the churches that follow the Gregorian calendar, Lent is a six-week observance (40 days excluding Sundays) beginning with Ash Wednesday and culminating in Holy Week. It is a time of repentance and sacrifice in preparation for Easter.

Naw Ruz
Tue., Mar. 19, 2024
Tradition: Baha'i
The seventh greatest festival, "New Day" is the first day of the Zoroastrian/Persian and Baha'i New Year. It falls on the spring equinox and symbolizes the renewal of the world after the winter. For Zoroastrians, Naw Ruz also celebrates the creation of fire that is symbolic of Asha, or righteousness. It is also the day on which Zarathustra received his revelation.

Ostara
Tue., Mar. 19, 2024
Tradition: Wicca/Paganism
Vernal Equinox, celebrating the equivalence of light and dark and the arrival of Spring.

Naw Ruz
Thu., Mar. 21, 2024
Tradition: Zoroastrianism
The seventh greatest festival, "New Day" is the first day of the Zoroastrian/Persian and Baha'i New Year. It falls on the spring equinox and symbolizes the renewal of the world after the winter.
