make them compelling for fourth graders. How did they do it?

creative forces for an immersive writing challenge: Take Market.

are planning meetups including the Nashville Symphony's Latin become a member of the Latinx EAG by completing the form linked to connect and share their experiences. We welcome you to for faculty, post-docs and staff at Vanderbilt that identify as Latina,

The Latinx employee affinity group provides enriching opportunities

Research collaborations with the National Museum of African

The Office of the Provost has awarded four inaugural Arts,

Vanderbilt–NMAAM collaborations

Faculty and staff awarded internal funds to spark outcomes and persistence in STEM among underrepresented

Vanderbilt University was awarded a grant by the Howard Hughes initiative

Vanderbilt University awarded $1.1M as part of

Polytechnic

offered throughout the academic year.

Initiative featuring a series of events, including reading groups,

Joseph Johnson Black Cultural Center, LGBTQI Life, Jean and communities navigate these changes, offices across Vanderbilt—classrooms and libraries. To help the Vanderbilt and Nashville

Recent policies and legislation across the U.S. have made the

Vanderbilt to launch Banned Book Initiative resources available to employees' families.

programs, which are part of a wider investment in the health of health programs for its employees in January 2023. The new

The Nashville Department of Transportation will install new City to enhance public parking options in wider area.

marked the launch of the STEMM Opportunity Alliance.

Equity and Excellence in Washington, D.C., Dec. 12. The summit attends White House Summit on STEMM Equity

Two veteran faculty members, highly regarded for their leadership and expertise in their fields, in advance to attend the in-person event or to watch online.

University's 2023 Martin Luther King Jr. Day commemorative event.

ABC's Emmy Award–winning journalist and author Byron Pitts, co-host of

The University of the South, will be the keynote speaker for Vanderbilt

South — classes

Lecture, sponsored by

Martin Luther King Jr. Commemorative

Vanderbilt School of

Dialogue: A conversation

on the economic cost of

Dialogue: A conversation

Alumni Spotlight

New Beginnings

As this new year begins to gain speed, it is my hope that we never

fitting in or finding our place anywhere is something so deeply

underestimate the impact our actions have on those around us, and

As this new year begins to gain speed, it is my hope that we never

fitting in or finding our place anywhere is something so deeply

underestimate the impact our actions have on those around us, and

As this new year begins to gain speed, it is my hope that we never

fitting in or finding our place anywhere is something so deeply

underestimate the impact our actions have on those around us, and

As this new year begins to gain speed, it is my hope that we never

fitting in or finding our place anywhere is something so deeply

underestimate the impact our actions have on those around us, and

As this new year begins to gain speed, it is my hope that we never

fitting in or finding our place anywhere is something so deeply

underestimate the impact our actions have on those around us, and

As this new year begins to gain speed, it is my hope that we never

fitting in or finding our place anywhere is something so deeply

underestimate the impact our actions have on those around us, and

As this new year begins to gain speed, it is my hope that we never

fitting in or finding our place anywhere is something so deeply

underestimate the impact our actions have on those around us, and

As this new year begins to gain speed, it is my hope that we never

fitting in or finding our place anywhere is something so deeply

underestimate the impact our actions have on those around us, and

As this new year begins to gain speed, it is my hope that we never

fitting in or finding our place anywhere is something so deeply

underestimate the impact our actions have on those around us, and

As this new year begins to gain speed, it is my hope that we never

fitting in or finding our place anywhere is something so deeply

underestimate the impact our actions have on those around us, and

As this new year begins to gain speed, it is my hope that we never