Undergraduate Research Symposium
Erb Memorial Union Ballroom on Thursday, May 17, 2018. The eighth annual Undergraduate Research Symposium Bigger Than Ever Operandi UROP has recently interviewed two undergraduate researchers as part of their regular series A Closer Look at Undergraduate Researchers.

Carrie Chesbro is the new Associate Director of Post Award. She has been serving as the Interim AD since February 2018. She will be overseeing all post-awards functions and will serve as the lead on audits and staff training. Carrie is returning to the University of Oregon after working as a consultant for the last five years in the area of sponsored programs. In prior roles, she has lead post-award and contract teams at the University of Kansas and the University of California at Berkeley. Carrie is passionate about developing internal controls. She is looking forward to the opportunity to serve as a mentor to our students — not to mention one of the kindest people you will ever meet.

University of Oregon formally joined NAI last year. NAI is a member organization with strong representation by AAU institutions that supports academic inventions and the societal impact of university research. The University of Oregon celebrated the launch of the first University of Oregon chapter of NAI on February 22 as an initiative to build a community of innovators, both past and present, for their groundbreaking work in research, the patents our inventors have received, and the positive impact their contributions make worldwide,” said Chuck Williams, associate vice president for Research and Innovation.
