nglccNY Hosts LGBTBE Roundtable on Personal Branding

The first of a three-part series, the roundtable gave insight into storytelling for LGBT-owned businesses.

Eduardo Placer, Founder and CEO of Fearless Communicators, led a discussion for LGBTBE owners on the power of the spoken word and crafting storytelling that propels an audience to engage with a business. After teaching the basics of effective storytelling, Eduardo shared effective communication skills and methods for practicing narratives in the safe space of our own community. Be on the lookout for our second LGBTBE roundtable, which will feature Jenn T. Grace, Founder & CEO of Publish Your Purpose Press.

nglccNY Hosts Panel for Local ERGs

Moving the needle for corporate D&I

As employees are increasingly looking for new ways to make their workplaces more inclusive, employee resources groups (ERGs) have become powerful ways for employees to activate within their company to create positive change within the company. nglccNY hosted a special event for ERG groups from nglccNY corporate partners to discuss ways that ERGs can take a leading role in making their workplaces more inclusive for trans, non-binary, and gender-fluid colleagues and co-workers. Hosted by New York Life, this event provided a forum for ERG members to discuss how to educate, support, and recruit non-binary, gender fluid, and transgender talent in their companies.

Maximize Your NYC Opportunities

RSVP for our educational panel session

A New York City bill was introduced to the New York City Council that will change existing laws requiring LGBTBEs to be included in the City's Minority and Women Business Certification program. In expectation of the passage of our bill, please join us for a panel discussion focused on leveraging your LGBTBE certification with the City of New York and how to maximize it with NGLCC's more than 200 corporate partners.
