Coastal Real Estate Club

The Coastal Real Estate Club had a very successful spring semester. They hosted a number of local realtors that provided tremendous wisdom and knowledge to the students. The club attended the 2022 Economic Growth and Real Estate Summit, hosted by the Grant Center. They were a tremendous help in making this year's event successful! We are extremely proud of these students and what they've accomplished this school year. We are excited for their planned fall 2022 semester. They deserve a fantastic summer break!

George Mason University law professor speaks with CCU students

On April 20th, George Mason University Antonin Scalia School of Law professor, Ilya Somin, spoke with students his book, Free to Move: Foot Voting, Migration, and Political Freedom. The topics discussed are extremely timely to the Grand Strand region. We appreciate Professor Somin for visiting CCU!

New Advisory Board Members

The Grant Center for Real Estate and Economics Advisory Board elected five new members at their Spring 2022 meeting.

Myrtle Beach-area companies still struggle to staff up. SC task force will study why

By
Richard Caines

In the Land of Opportunity, the Grand Strand is that Opportunity. While businesses are struggling to find workers, there is a concerted movement with the local public and private sectors to ensure that these issues cease to exist in the near future, as pointed out by Grant Center director, Rob Salvino.

In Myrtle Beach, you have Nance Plaza, Market Common, and the downtown arts & innovation district. In North Myrtle Beach, there's the expansion of sports tourism.

Conway is doing a fantastic job of building it's downtown waterfront district.

Loris is doing an equally fantastic job of building it's downtown district, sports tourism, and embracing of it's manufacturing industry.

The struggles are only temporary, with a bright future on the horizon!
