Dear Department of Communication Members,

Winter 2020

Welcome to the Department of Communication’s Winter 2020 alumni newsletter. This newsletter has been assembled as a way to share news about our faculty, staff, and students. We have many positive updates about our recent accomplishments that we would like to share with you.

With the Fall 2020 semester in the rearview mirror, we are anticipating a restful holiday season before none of us have seen before. I am incredibly proud of their hard work and accomplishments this year and looking forward to a healthy and prosperous new year.

Four new tenure-line faculty joined our department in August 2020 and they have hit the ground running. They teach and research in the areas of interpersonal communication, strategic communication and social media and will conduct research in sports communication, emerging leaders in the field.

We also welcomed Professor Greg Cranmer to the National Communication Association’s Applied Communication Division. His book, “Three Experiments,” was recently published in the Journal of Computer-Mediated Communication, one of the top journals in the discipline.

We also welcomed Professor Jordan Morehouse from the department of communication at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where she teaches and researches in strategic communication, public relations and non-profit organizations.

Our faculty, staff and students have been working on ways to help our students navigate issues that are made more challenging by the COVID-19 pandemic. We are excited to have Jordan on board. She is already making a difference in the experiences had and the thinking about the future for teaching and learning.

In many ways, the experiences during this crisis have enlightened so many of us in the department and at Clemson to not only how strong we really are, but also how much stronger we truly can be by applying the lessons learned, of which none of us have seen before.

Due to the COVID-19 crisis, we are doing and even more excited about our future.

We are thrilled about what we are doing and even more excited about our future.

We are grateful for your generous support.

To continue receiving our emails, add us to your address book.

Department Chair Joe Mazer

John Elling

We try to convey just a snapshot of the department’s recent accomplishments.

Welcome to the Department of Communication’s Winter 2020 alumni newsletter. This newsletter has been assembled as a way to share news about our faculty, staff, and students. We have many positive updates about our recent accomplishments that we would like to share with you.

Four new tenure-line faculty joined our department in August 2020 and they have hit the ground running. They teach and research in the areas of interpersonal communication, strategic communication and social media and will conduct research in sports communication, emerging leaders in the field.

We also welcomed Professor Greg Cranmer to the National Communication Association’s Applied Communication Division. His book, “Three Experiments,” was recently published in the Journal of Computer-Mediated Communication, one of the top journals in the discipline.

We also welcomed Professor Jordan Morehouse from the department of communication at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where she teaches and researches in strategic communication, public relations and non-profit organizations.

Our faculty, staff and students have been working on ways to help our students navigate issues that are made more challenging by the COVID-19 pandemic. We are excited to have Jordan on board. She is already making a difference in the experiences had and the thinking about the future for teaching and learning.

In many ways, the experiences during this crisis have enlightened so many of us in the department and at Clemson to not only how strong we really are, but also how much stronger we truly can be by applying the lessons learned, of which none of us have seen before.

Due to the COVID-19 crisis, we are doing and even more excited about our future.

We are thrilled about what we are doing and even more excited about our future.

We are grateful for your generous support.

To continue receiving our emails, add us to your address book.