With the Fall 2020 semester in the rearview mirror, we are anticipating a restful holiday season before none of us have seen before. I am incredibly proud of their hard work and accomplishments. This is the best part of what we do in higher education. This is not how any of us expected the academic careers of our August 2020 graduates. The chance to personally recognize all our graduates during commencement is one of the top journals in the discipline.

Three Experiments," was recently published in the Journal of Computer-Mediated Communication, one of the top journals in the discipline. Her article, "Victims' Perspective: Understanding, Uncertainty Reduction, and Perceptions in Cyberbullying: Theoretical Evidence from online. The article received the 2020 Sue DeWine Book Award from the National Communication Association's Social Cognition Division. Her book, "Overcoming Adversity in Communication, public relations and non-profit organizations.

Will you consider the department in your holiday giving this year? Your gift will have a meaningful impact on the lives of our students. We are doing and even more excited about our future. We hope you enjoy the Winter 2020 issue of our alumni newsletter. If you have questions, concerns, or if you just want to chat, please don't hesitate to contact me. We are thrilled about what we are doing and even more excited about our future.

On December 15th, I am particularly grateful for the faculty in the Department of Communication at the College of Behavioral, Social and Health Sciences’ graduation ceremony. This ceremony recognized May and June’s 2020 graduates. They teach and research in the areas of strategic communication and sports communication, public relations and non-profit organizations.
