July 2021 Newsletter

Beyond the Headlines: Myrtle Beach’s Summer Tourism

How hot is Myrtle Beach’s tourism market this summer? With a severe shifting change affecting the nation, how has the Myrtle Beach region been able to adapt to the millions of visitors it sees each summer?

On June 24, Grant Center director Robert Saclarides, Ph.D., was the featured speaker for The Post and Courier’s event "Beyond the Headlines: Myrtle Beach’s Summer Tourism," moderated by Jay Rodrigues of The Post and Courier.

Grant Center introduced at FAAGC Fridays

FIABC Fridays

This past week, the Grant Center had the privilege of being introduced at the virtual event, FIABC Fridays.

FIABC Fridays is an international event hosted by FIABC USA. It is a weekly opportunity to present a real estate leadership forum, featuring opportunities to provide expert insight and advice.

Through this partnership, students have the opportunity to build leadership and community knowledge with networking with members of the real estate industry.

Coastal Carolina University is a university partner of FAABC. Through this partnership, students have the opportunity to build leadership and community knowledge with networking with members of the real estate industry.

Batabyal delivers economic outlook presentation to Tidelands Health Leadership Academy

Walt College of Business professor Sankar Batabyal, Ph.D., recently delivered a presentation on the economic outlook of the South Carolina (S.C) Batabyal delivered a presentation on the economic outlook of the Southeast and the world to the Tidelands Health Leadership Academy. Additionally, he participated in a panel about the state of the real estate market to the S.C. Batabyal delivered a presentation on the economic outlook of the Southeast and the world to the Tidelands Health Leadership Academy. Additionally, he participated in a panel about the state of the real estate market to the Tidelands Health Leadership Academy.