COMMUNITY HIGHLIGHTS

For more information on any of the above subjects or to request technical assistance for your project today!

Call for Engagement Award: Building Capacity for Small Organizations to Engage in PCOR/CER

The Center welcomes new partnerships from other national-level organizations that can help to scale its impact. The Center is utilizing innovative small-area estimation methodologies with public health departments in the San Joaquin Valley region, partnering with the Tule River Indian Tribe to develop a more accurate estimation of mortality and cause of death. Beyond the Bay Area, PHS collaborates with systems to achieve this goal.

...in patient-centered outcomes research/comparative clinical effectiveness research.

...funded research findings, community capacity building, as well as capacity building for small organizations to engage in research support projects aimed at encouraging meaningful stakeholder involvement, dissemination of PCORI-Engagement Award: Building Capacity for Small Organizations to Engage in PCOR/CER

The Center for Public Service Haas Center for Public Service

Racism saps the strength of the whole society, and most importantly, we can act to dismantle Racism guided by the important and challenging questions from students. This day culminated with public event on the four allegories on health of our nation. Later,

...On November 4, 2022, Dr. Jones, the Founding Director of the Center for Public Service, presented "The Art of Racial Justice" seminar. Dr. Jones, a Harvard-trained public health researcher, addresses the critical role of education and research through teaching and student advocacy in East Bay. In her engaging, passionate, and compelling manner, Jones inspired students, faculty, community partners to understand and address their health equity-related questions and faculty mentors, and their projects.

Wishing you and your loved ones a love and gratitude-filled holiday season!