Dear Colleague,

Hope all of you had a happy and safe Canada Day (to our Canadian colleagues) and Independence Day (to our friends in the U.S.)!

And please continue to send out positive vibes. Not sure if you've realized, but we're already counting down to 2021 . . . less than six months until when we can strike this "year to forget" from our calendars with the hope that the new year brings fresh air and only good things to our lives.

Because we were unable to do sales calls and travel around North America during the last three months, the Emerging Destinations' team has been mainly focused on webinars with our cool clients. We have been overwhelmed with the response and have actually doubled the attendance rate. Thanks for your support and interest!

Going forward, we want to dive even deeper into our creative skills and energy to produce more customized and private webinars for you and your team. So please reach out to us with ideas and dates when you would like to go live.

Last — and because all of us miss being out on the road so much — we're working on launching our Virtual Trade Show. Stay tuned!

Meanwhile, enjoy the blogs in the July edition of The Americas newsletter.

Best regards,

Ana
