Participate in the 7th Annual Roger That! Conference

There is Enough Space for Everyone!

Roger That! is a two-day public symposium, honoring the memory of Grand Rapids astronaut Roger B. Chaffee, and intended to promote interest in both space exploration specifically and STEM in general. This year's keynote speaker is astronaut José Hernández, whose inspiring life story is the subject of the upcoming movie, "A Million Miles Away." The event also includes virtual presentations by experts around the world and in-person STEM-based activities for all ages, including a design challenge for 4th-8th graders at GVSU on Friday and family-friendly activities at Grand Rapids Public Museum on Saturday.
