Return and Renewal: An Asian & Asian American Art Show

Join us for the Quest for the Bread of Love event, held in partnership with the Harvard Square Homeless Shelter. The event will orient participants to the bread of love and is based on the 1967 speech, "A Knock at Midnight" wherein Rev. Dr. King proclaims: "When you stop hoping, you're dying...in the midst of this hopelessness men and women reach out for the bread of hope. Then, that is the quest for the bread of love. Everybody needs this bread". The event will orient the Tufts community to the commitment that both Rev. Dr. King and Coretta Scott King shared to deep care of one another.

How do you put your values into action? Join fellow Tufts students in reflecting and acting on this question during MLK Day of Community Action on Saturday, January 29 at Breed Memorial Hall. This year, we will be supporting the Harvard Square Homeless Shelter, located in University Lutheran Church, 66 Winthrop St. Cambridge, MA (in the middle of Harvard Square).

All are welcome as we rekindle our relationship with the Harvard Square Homeless Shelter. Since November 3, we have been sending 3-4 Tufts community members to help serve breakfast at the Harvard Square Homeless Shelter. We are able to serve. We will have this shift through the spring semester. Please sign up to our Google Form to volunteer.

These supplies support the work of organizations throughout the Greater Boston area, including Black and Pink, Boston Women's Center, and Friends of Refugees from Around the World. They are distributed to those who are affected by COVID-19, food, housing, and economic insecurity.

Student volunteers will be needed to help distribute food and supplies. Please sign up with our Google Form. We will need volunteers to hand out supplies and help people to fill out forms.

In addition to MLK Day of Community Action, we will have a variety of events throughout the semester. Look for "Love: Radical Community Care" and "Governor Kaur this March; a series on just being (vs. ever-doing) entitled The Rest of Us for faculty and staff in April; and an event that is based on the 1967 speech, "A Knock at Midnight" wherein Rev. Dr. King proclaims: "When you stop hoping, you're dying...in the midst of this hopelessness men and women reach out for the bread of hope. Then, that is the quest for the bread of love. Everybody needs this bread". The event will orient the Tufts community to the commitment that both Rev. Dr. King and Coretta Scott King shared to deep care of one another.

In 2022, we can name our own midnights in the orders of our day: a still-ravaging pandemic exposing the deep inequities and injustices that abound in our society; the perilous fragility of our democracy and grave threat to access to justice; the urgency of our climate crisis; the inequality in access to health care and education; and the perilous fragility of our democracy and grave threat to access to justice. These are the midnights of despair and injustice, of war and white supremacy, of callousness and denial. He provocatively asks us: "What is the midnight of our lives?" To which he responds: "The midnight of despair". And he invites his listeners to listen anew to the knock on our doors, compelled by the quest for the bread of love. This is based on the 1967 speech, "A Knock at Midnight" wherein Rev. Dr. King proclaims: "When you stop hoping, you're dying...in the midst of this hopelessness men and women reach out for the bread of hope. Then, that is the quest for the bread of love. Everybody needs this bread". The event will orient the Tufts community to the commitment that both Rev. Dr. King and Coretta Scott King shared to deep care of one another.

Midnights of despair and injustice, of war and white supremacy, of callousness and denial. He provocatively asks us: "What is the midnight of our lives?" To which he responds: "The midnight of despair". And he invites his listeners to listen anew to the knock on our doors, compelled by the quest for the bread of love. This is based on the 1967 speech, "A Knock at Midnight" wherein Rev. Dr. King proclaims: "When you stop hoping, you're dying...in the midst of this hopelessness men and women reach out for the bread of hope. Then, that is the quest for the bread of love. Everybody needs this bread".

Save the date for the annual Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Annual Celebration. This year's theme, "Love: Radical Community Care" will be based on the 1967 speech, "A Knock at Midnight" wherein Rev. Dr. King proclaims: "When you stop hoping, you're dying...in the midst of this hopelessness men and women reach out for the bread of hope. Then, that is the quest for the bread of love. Everybody needs this bread". The event will orient the Tufts community to the commitment that both Rev. Dr. King and Coretta Scott King shared to deep care of one another.