THOUGHTS FROM THE DIRECTOR

My role at the CINA center puts me in contact with a wide variety of people at GMU and beyond. The center is an interdisciplinary hub for the advancement of research, education, and public awareness in criminal network analysis. The center is funded by a variety of sources, including grants, private donations, and corporate sponsorships. The center's aim is to foster collaboration among researchers, practitioners, and policymakers to address complex issues in criminal network analysis. The center's mission is to make a significant contribution to the understanding of criminal networks and their role in the global economy. The center is committed to promoting evidence-based policy and to advancing the field of criminal network analysis. The center's activities include hosting conferences, workshops, and seminars, as well as conducting research and providing training. The center is proud to be a part of GMU and to contribute to the university's mission of advancing knowledge and understanding.
