Turn over a new leaf

Join Hakeem Oluseyi, Astrophysicist, Visiting Robinson Professor for his lecture "Hack the Stars." February 7, 2022 | 7 to 8:15 p.m.

Mason Vision Series

Applications for the ASSIP program are now open. If you know a student who may be interested, share this February 6, 2022 | 11:59 p.m.

ASSIP 2022 Session: Application Deadline

Refer to your email for meeting link

College of Science Faculty Meeting with Panelists from IPN, LGBTQ+ Faculty/Staff Alliance, and Disability Services at Mason. February 2, 2022 | 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. | Johnson Center Cinema future of climate action at Mason.

Engage with the Mason Sustainability Council, hear the latest updates, and share your thoughts about the Climate Action Plan Townhall Thursday, January 26, 2022

Researchers in the Department of Communication will offer this training as part of a funded study training this spring - participants are paid for their time.

Mason faculty, post-docs, and graduate students invited to participate in science communication study

Sign up for science communication training as part of larger database says that "being aware of a problem is the first step to trying to solve it." Chair, in a slanted view of the history of life.

high- and upper-middle income countries resulting palaeontological data comes from scientists in A new study finds that 97 percent of wealthier countries Fossil records skew towards graduate student Nick Moreno

Academies of Sciences. Photo courtesy of Ylenia Chiari working in unison at the Science and Technology Campus on an ambitious project to see if the honey Training Laboratory could yield critical advances the new outdoor Forensic Science Research and University's Honey Bee Initiative and police cases

Food and peace towards sustainable justice and food sovereignty is a high priority for people in the Virginia community. At Mason, we are working on projects that can help to end food insecurity. Join us for this week's Research & Discovery event to learn more about our work.

Logical and moral in 18th C. US, Ian Semple, Mason Annual 18th C. Symposium

#FacultyFriday features neuroscience assistant professor, L. Ren Guerriero

"The path to the future is not to be found in the past." This quote by Nobel Peace Prize laureate Ancient Egyptian scribe, Amenemhat, serves as a reminder of the importance of looking forward and embracing new ideas. As we start the new semester, I'm hoping we each can 'turn over a new leaf.' And I'm not just referring to your professor, but to all of us.

As we start the new semester, I'm hoping we each can 'turn over a new leaf.' And I'm not just referring to your professor, but to all of us.

It's not just about trying something new. It's about elevating the way we do what we do.

Be safe: I'm grateful for the many COVID-19 prevention mechanisms our university has in place. From COVID testing, vaccines, and boosters to a supportive environment if someone you should talk to...