A note from the Muslim Chaplain

Ramadan Mubarak

The commemoration of Buddha's birth, enlightenment, and parinirvana, celebrated on the day of the full moon of the sixth lunar month in Southeast Asian cultures; in Tibetan culture, Wesak commemorates only the enlightenment. The Middlesex Fells Reservation and Lynn Woods Reservation have served as my very own retreat these past few months, where taking long, leisurely walks has been a necessary balm for my soul. It is good for me to be reminded of the capacity of nature to rejuvenate and refresh like this. Our physical distancing may feel like a retreat, but it is one we are forced to endure. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually fast from dawn to dusk, distancing ourselves from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spirituality fast from dawn to dusk, distancing ourselves from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually distant from food, drink, and intimacy. This year's unique reality of Ramadan this year has challenged the Muslim community to embrace these circumstances in new logistical, social, and spiritually Trust in Allah, with a heavy heart and a heavy mind. Even when distant, our hearts are close. I pray we all have a greater sense of connection and closeness this month. Please respond by May 13.