Three SCIENCE students win Goldwater Scholarships

The College of Science honored its outstanding undergraduate and graduate students April 10 at its annual College Awards Celebration. Here’s a look at some of the awardees:

Genetics major wins 2019 Norris Medal

Geneticist Rami Major wins the 2019 Norris Medal as best all-around graduating senior at Clemson University. Major, who is graduating with a degree in the Biochemistry and Molecular Biology Program, will attend the University of Wisconsin-Madison in the fall to pursue a Ph.D. in biomedical sciences.

Goldwater Scholarships

Three outstanding College of Science students are Clemson University’s winners of the 2019 Barry M. Goldwater Scholarship, a premier national undergraduate award in the fields of mathematics, natural sciences and engineering.

What a year!

What a year! What a year! What a year! Thank you – each and every one of you – for your aspiration, inspiration, commitment, and hard work. It is my honor to serve as your dean.

As I shook each SCIENCE graduate’s hand, I was reminded that the holy grail at Clemson is the signature student experience. I hope that this academic year exceeded even your highest expectations. If you graduated this spring – congratulations! We welcome you into the Clemson Alumni family and look forward to your continued engagement with SCIENCE. Stay in touch so we can follow all of your accomplishments! Returning students: whether you are studying abroad, interning, taking classes, conducting research or just getting some rest and relaxation – we can follow all of your accomplishments! Returning students: whether you are studying abroad, interning, taking classes, conducting research or just getting some rest and relaxation – we can follow all of your accomplishments!

What a year! What a year! What a year!