February is for You!

Hello all!

I know the quarter is reaching its midpoint, and am really looking forward to having lunch with students Brian and Katya this week! I had a great time discussing the Center in Washington D.C. It is the Center's first major event and will be attended by policymakers, academics, journalists and others from around the country.

The Center is hosting its inaugural conference -- "Displacements: Peoples, Politics, and Power in the Americas." The conference, which is being held on March 21st, is calling for papers. The keynote speaker will be Fred Moten, an Associate Professor of Philosophy at the University of California, Irvine. He will be discussing his latest book "In the Round." More information about the conference, keynote address, and submission of paper proposals can be found here: https://education.ucsb.edu/programs/events/displacements-peoples-politics-power-americas

Students should be aware of dangerously high surf and high tide conditions and potential for some flooding and cliff erosion in areas near campus and in Isla Vista. The National Weather Service has issued a Flash Flood Watch, High Surf Advisory, Coastal Flooding Advisory, and High Wind Warning for the UCSB/Isla Vista area. This week's storm (beginning after midnight tonight and continuing late into Friday) contains Urgent Storm and Safety Information.
