Parent to Parent Family Story: Sense of Belonging

"Deven Riffle is a 17-year-old bright, entrepreneurial young man who created Blue Mountain Able Heroes to provide a fun inclusive space for people with and without physical disabilities to play sports, make friends and give back to the community." Read More

A Note From Parent to Parent...

I had the honor of attending the retirement party of Steve and Lauri Jordan. Their combined service to the DD community has been 49 years. Steve Jordan has been with the Developmental Disabilities Administration for 33 years and Lauri Jordan has been with Division of Vocational Rehabilitation for 13 years. It is so awesome that they get to retire together on October 31. Although it is a big loss to our community, I can celebrate with them and all that they have been a part of in our community. They have seen great changes over the years with better services for clients through DDA or clients looking for job skills, and employment through DVR. It is never easy working with people who need assistance, while waiting on the State agencies that are in charge of implementing services. Both Steve and Lauri were very patient and kind listening to those who were upset with the system and always tried to help. You could feel the love and respect for the two of them in the room who have known or worked along side them over the years. I wish you both all the best. Thank you for the service to our community. You are appreciated!

Sincerely,

Angie, Parent to Parent Coordinator
