

Literacy How Formally Converts to a Nonprofit

I'm pleased to announce that Literacy How, Inc. has formally converted to a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization. From the beginning of Literacy How, children have been at the heart of our work. In fact, all profits were donated to education and, in more recent years, funded the work of the Anne E. Fowler Foundation.

As we celebrate our tenth anniversary this summer, our new status will open doors to new partnerships and opportunities to fulfill our mission—to empower teaching excellence to ensure that every child learns to read by third grade.

Our children, especially those who are most at risk for reading failure, deserve the very best teachers who possess the knowledge, experience, and belief that each and every one can learn to read!

Our team will continue to fulfill this mission each day and strive to give our teachers the knowledge and tools they need to help close the achievement gap and raise the bar for all of our students.
