Tara Bennewitz finds a teaching position she loves across country from Huntsville »

It took awhile for Tara Bennewitz to get to yes when husband John asked her if she was willing to move from her native Huntsville across country to Los Angeles, Calif.

But the story has a happy ending for Tara (BS, Biology, 2012), who has found a teaching job she loves at The Palmdale Aerospace Academy (TPAA) in Palmdale, Calif., a public charter school that focuses on a science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM) curriculum for its students.

UAH alumnus Thompson joins TVA board »

James "Skip" Thompson of Decatur, an alumnus of The University of Alabama in Huntsville (UAH), has been sworn in as a director of the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA).

Thompson (BS, Business Administration, 1981), who resigned from the Decatur Utilities board of directors after six years of service to assume his new position, will serve on the TVA board of directors until 2021.

History is alive for alumna who is new Lawrence County Archives director »

A lot of Lawrence County, Ala., history is now in the hands of a University of Alabama in Huntsville (UAH) alumna.

Wendy Hazle (BS, History, 2014) was recently named Lawrence County Archives director, moving into her "dream job" in the historic Moulton Bank building that houses the Archives at 698 Main Street in downtown Moulton.
