What's new at the David Eccles School of Business?

Family Business Roundtable - Bill Child

At the David Eccles School of Business Family Business Roundtable, community members and business leaders joined together for networking, business inspiration, and a few laughs. This semester's roundtable featured Bill Child, who unexpectedly was put in charge of the R.C. Willey appliance business in 1954 after Child wed Willey's daughter and Willey experienced a decline in health. Read more about his secrets to business success in the Eccles Newsroom today!

Classnotes Data

Gathering

We are looking for David Eccles School of Business alumni to feature in our bi-annual publication of the Eccles Experience magazine! If you have been credited with any recent promotions, honors or awards and would like to be featured, please fill out the following survey. Did you take a position at a new company? We'd love to share the news and celebrate with you! We value your time and the survey should take no more than 5 minutes to complete.

Spence Eccles receives national leadership award

Eccles School alumnus and benefactor Spencer F. Eccles has been presented with the National Centennial Leadership Award from Junior Achievement USA. You can read more about the award - and why Spence was one of only 6

recipients here.

Part-Time MBA Rankings

The University of Utah David Eccles School of Business' Professional MBA program jumped 16 spots in U.S. News & World Report's rankings for the best part-time MBA programs, moving to No. 44 overall, and No.1 part-time MBA in Utah. The part-time MBA ranking represents an astounding 64 spot climb in just two years. The U.S. News & World Report part-time MBA program rankings are unique in that half of a school's score is determined by the program's peer schools.

Career Mentorship Awards

Nominated by students, these annual awards are presented to faculty members for exemplary guidance and support in career education and exploration. Eccles Business School students shared stories of inspiration and success on both a professional and personal level, emphasizing the enormous impact that a faculty member can make in a student's life.
