A Diwali Reflection from the Hindu Advisor

Namaste dear friends,

As you read this, in our Tufts community and around the world, we have just celebrated Diwali – one of the most widely observed Hindu festivals. Meaning “a row of lights” in Sanskrit, Diwali is commemorated with the lighting of clay lamps known as diyas. Here, at Tufts, we sent Diwali kits to students containing Rangoli powders, a paper stencil, and an electronic tealight. To celebrate, we met for online Aarti, discussed the Rama Amar Chitra Katha, and ate together virtually.

While considered a world religion, Hinduism does not have a single scriptural text nor a single religious leader. Hinduism includes a spectrum of philosophical, spiritual, and religious practices, beliefs, and traditions. According to our scriptures, in particular the Ramayana, Diwali also commemorates the return of Lord Rama to Ayodhya after vanquishing the ten-headed Ravana.

We might contemporize the understanding of Lord Rama’s undertaking as that which any human being on the journey to enlightenment needs to undergo to overcome ten steps to Self-Realization. I interpret these ten steps to Self-Realization as related to the ten Yamas and Niyamas (dos and don’ts) of Sanatan Dharma. The five Yamas are 1) Ahimsa (Non-violence), 2) Satya (Truth), 3) Asteya (Non-stealing), 4) Brahmacharya (Behavior as God), and 5) Aparigraha (Non-hoarding). The five Niyamas are 1) Saucha (Cleanliness), 2) Santosha (Gratitude), 3) Tapas (Discipline), 4) Swaddhyay (Study of Self) and 5) Ishvar Pranidhan (Surrender of Self).

In this sense, Diwali is a time for all of us to contemplate our being beyond the egoic domains of existence. I recently read the beautifully written book The Hidden Life of Trees by Peter Wohlleben, and learnt that trees live outside of principles of “survival of the fittest.” If one tree suffers, the whole community suffers. Using a complex, interrelated root system, the community sends nourishment to a member in need.

In these times, let us remember that our roots are interrelated. May the lights that illuminate the physical dimension imprint in our emotional, mental, and spiritual dimensions. May we embody the diya and find ways to illuminate our own life as well as those around us.

Dhanyavaadah and best wishes,

#TuftsGivingTuesday: Help Us Build a Brighter World on December 1

This year marks the 115th anniversary of the Tufts University Chaplaincy founding. Join us in celebrating the growth and vitality of our multifaith community through these years as we commemorate our past, celebrate our present, and creatively envision our future. On #TuftsGivingTuesday, we will share stories that highlight our commitment to creating an interdependent, brighter future together—across faiths, traditions, and worldviews. Our main goal is participation and gifts of any size are most welcome! Your generosity to the Friends of Goddard Fund will enhance our dynamic, multifaith programs and increase our capacity to serve all members of the Tufts community. We would be deeply grateful to see your gift on December 1.

Please visit our donation page to give today. If you have any questions, please email University Chaplaincy program coordinator Shelby Carpenter.

Ask Me Anything: Islam
Wednesday, November 16, 6:30 p.m. - 8:30 p.m. ET

Islam, being a 1500 year old, internationally practiced tradition, has a lot that is unknown and misunderstood. Join Muslim chaplain Imam Abdul-Malik Merchant for Ask Me Anything: Islam. This event is intentionally for anyone who has ever had a question - big or small - about the practice, theology, or lived experience of being Muslim. Who is Allah? How old is the faith? Are there white Muslims? Join us for an enriching conversation. You can find more information and the Zoom link on our website and Facebook page.

Africana Spirituality Chaplaincy
Rhythm and Rituals: Sound Healing
Tuesdays, 7:00 p.m. - 8:00 p.m. ET

Please note: there is a gathering on Tuesday, November 24

African religious traditions vary by ethnic group, in custom, practice and language. Widely speaking, a common factor that weaves such heterogeneity together is a commitment to rituals that often manifest through song and dance. Join the Africana Spirituality Community for close-textual analysis of the wisdom within poems and lyrics by Black writers, artists and storytellers. We will explore the text of different authors within African religious traditions writ-large from the U.S. to South America and Africa and deep dive into the wisdom each offer up through Afro-diasporic expressive culture. All genres are welcome including music reflected in the traditions of Hip-Hop, Funk, Jazz, Soul, Blues, Afro-Beat, Afro-futurism and any other Afro-Diasporic sounds across time and space. Please email Africana Spirituality Advisor Azmera Hammouri-Davis with any questions, or schedule a meeting with her on her Calendly.

To hear about upcoming programs for the community, you can sign up for the new Africana Spirituality elist. For Zoom links to any offering listed above, please visit our website.

Comedy Night with Zainab Johnson
Wednesday, November 18, 8:00 p.m. ET

The Graduate School of Arts and Sciences (GSAS) Community Fellows invite you to a night of community and conversation but with a twist: comedy! Over the last several months we realize that diversity, equity, inclusion (DEI), and belonging have been at the forefront of many conversations. While these conversations are important and needed, they often come at an emotional cost. One aspect of underrepresented groups is their ability to overcome pain and find joy in the midst of it. Join the GSAS Community Fellows as they create a space to bring awareness about DEI issues, and create a space where the Tufts community can laugh and vibe. The event will welcome comedian Zainab Johnson, and you can register for the event here.

'Ecologies of Acknowledgement' Calls for Recognition of Occupied Land
September 8 - March 2021

This fall, the Tufts University Art Galleries (TUAG) is showing “Ecologies of Acknowledgment,” a collaborative project between writer and interdisciplinary artist Sarah Kanouse and researcher and writer Nicholas Brown. The exhibition, which opened on Sept. 8, 2020, and will remain until March 2021, features a video installation and a framed letterpress print that consider the process of writing an impactful and lasting land acknowledgment. For more details, read this Tufts Daily article.

The Progress Network - Healing the Nation
Thursday, November 19, 8:00 p.m. ET

Recently the United States has felt anything but united. After an especially contentious election, what paths can we take that will help heal a divided nation? Join the founder of The Progress Network, Zachary Karabell, with On Being’s Krista Tippett and Interfaith Youth Core’s Eboo Patel as they discuss the role of spiritually-based solutions to moving forward together. Register for the event here.
The Venerable Female Scholars of Islam
Saturday and Sunday, November 28 - 29, 10:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m EST

Join the Boston Islamic Seminary for a weekend workshop intensive focusing on the importance of women scholar in our faith. It is important to highlight that contributions from women scholars were integral to the preservation of religious tradition, such as the intellectual foundations of Islam, as we know it. The workshop will examine the role of women shaping, sharing, and securing the legacy of the Prophet (PBUH) through their work as Muhaddithat, scholars of the hadith cannon. Everyone with a serious interest in the Islamic intellectual scholarship, and the role of women in preserving and transmitting the Islamic tradition is encouraged to attend the workshop. Click here to RSVP for the event as well as learn more about the program's specifics.
Creating Our Future: Ritual, Race and Religion in America
Tuesday, December 8, 1:00 p.m. EST

Ritual helps us as humans mark a moment, make meaning amidst complexity and take time to express the fundamental values that anchor our lives. Join us for a rich conversation, moderated by Dr. Kanika Magee, with Dr. Monica Coleman, Donna Auston, Lisa Doi, and Rabbi Sandra Lawson to address the role of ritual in this moment. Register for the event here.
