Your Faculty Ombuds: Natalie Grecu

Watermark Course Evalutaion Tool Update

Things to know and where to go when it comes to conflict resolution. The UVU Faculty Ombuds role was created so that faculty dealing with problems or conflicts have a safe place to go.

UVU is switching from a Student Ratings of Instruction (SRI) system to the Watermark Course Evaluation System (CES). This change allows students to access the CES through Canvas and enables faculty to import CES results into their Faculty Success templates.

Faculty Footnotes: Finding Solutions With Machine Learning

“Never stop asking questions” is the advice that UVU Associate Professor of Biology Dr. Colleen Hough has for science students. This curiosity-based mindset is what motivated UVU biotech students to present their solution for preventing harmful algal blooms in Utah at the International Genetically Engineered Machine (iGEM) competition in Paris, France.

Policy Highlight: Rank Advancement at UVU

Service Learning Champion: Lauren Brooks

While September might seem far away, it is not too early to start preparing your rank advancement portfolio in Faculty Success. These early spring months can be ideal for reflecting on your achievements and gathering documentation — before the end-of-semester rush begins.

Read All Policy Updates

Lauren Brooks is an associate professor in the biology department, where she was hired as an environmental biologist. While her Ph.D. is in microbiology, she is also passionate about preserving the environment and loves teaching courses that allow her to introduce students to pertinent issues facing biodiversity and ecosystem health.
