Week's Venture Design Challenge semi-finals. Four teams know that they simply did not make the final cut. The students who were most associated with school were distress, shame, and upset. Those with growth mindsets did not struggle with academic challenges such as daunting projects or low grades, and when (IF) they fell flat on their face they know to make a list of three ways they could do better next time. Rinse and repeat.

Growth mindset students are liberated to try new things. And when (IF) they fall flat on their face, they turn that into growth and development. This psychological training is critical to their future entrepreneurial success.

Our curriculum is based on the research Stanford psychology Professor Carol Dweck has teach it through an entrepreneurial lens.

While ENTP is not the only program to teach growth mindset, it is the only program to focus on teaching it through an entrepreneurial lens.

When we help our students begin to adopt a growth mindset, they look at new challenges, you - eager to learn and collaborate.
