Dear Friends & Allies,

Thank you for being such a great team, and for all you have given to make this world a better place.

I am especially impressed and thankful for my colleagues at Worksafe. This new opportunity would not be possible but for the incredible welcome and support I received when I arrived at Worksafe, from the staff, the Board, and from so many dedicated friends in the labor, public health, and environmental harm.

Adding to the recent changes at Worksafe, this month we said farewell to our Employment (CASE) Attorney! We are thrilled to announce that Augustin Eichwald-Romero, who will help keep the temporary worker project alive and well — keep reading to learn more!

Tim has been a wonderful coworker and a vital part of the Worksafe team. We will miss his thoughtful contributions, sharp legal mind, and thoroughly pleasant disposition. Fortunately, we found a great replacement for him who will help keep the temporary worker project alive and well — keep reading to learn more!

Meet Our New SoCal Attorney!

We are thrilled to announce that Molecular Toxicologist Kim Whittington has joined the Worksafe team as our new SoCal Attorney. Kim is joining Worksafe from a California State University affiliation, and before joining Worksafe, she has been a researcher at the University of California, Berkeley. Kim brings a wealth of legal and scientific expertise to her new work at Worksafe, and we are thrilled to welcome her to our team!

Thanks for being such a great team, and for all you have given to support our nonprofits and the work they do to make a better world for everyone.

I am especially impressed and thankful for my colleagues at Worksafe. Working in the nonprofit sector has been a rewarding, learning experience. I am looking forward to supporting my friends at Worksafe in their work, and to new friends and supporters at Worksafe.

Signed,
[Signature]

[Your Name]

Augustin Eichwald-Romero Joins WWRC!

We are thrilled to announce that Augustin Eichwald-Romero will join the Workers' Rights Resource Center (WWRC) as their new Staff Attorney, focusing on California's temporary worker project! Augustin worked with us for over five years working in various campaigns to address pollution and health, then moved to Southern California to join the California Environmental Justice Alliance (CEJA) to work for environmental justice in the South Bay community of Los Angeles. In his new position and through the California Alliance for Secure Employment (CASE), he will continue to work to prevent pollution and ensure economic security for temporary and low-wage workers.

Augustin is a native of Tijuana, Mexico, and has worked in several firms that represent Southern California’s immigrant and low-wage workers. Before joining Worksafe, Augustin worked in several firms that represent Southern California’s immigrant and low-wage workers. He has experience working with monolingual Spanish-speaking clients, and he is passionate about our work to support workers in Southern California and spearhead our environmental justice agenda in the South Bay.

We are thrilled to announce that Augustin Eichwald-Romero, who will help keep the temporary worker project alive and well — keep reading to learn more!

Meet Our New SoCal Attorney!

We are thrilled to announce that Molecular Toxicologist Kim Whittington has joined the Worksafe team as our new SoCal Attorney.

The position of SoCal Attorney is open to folks you know who may be interested!

And We’re Seeking a New Legal Fellow!

We are excited to announce that we are hiring for a new legal fellow to join our team at Worksafe, Oakland! Please forward the hiring announcement to folks you know who may be interested!

Workers' Rights Resource Center (WWRC) is looking to change the narrative around temporary workers and seasonal farm workers by supporting workers and communities impacted by the gig economy. Since WWRC was founded in 2016, WWRC has been leading efforts to fight for the rights and economic security for temporary and low-wage workers. WWRC is part of the California Alliance for Secure Employment (CASE), a coalition of organizations working to stop pollution and ensure economic security for temporary and low-wage workers.

Secretary of Labor Marty Walsh announced two weeks ago that the Biden administration will require all employers to report workplace injuries and illnesses. WWRC’s SoCal Attorney will help work with the community to support temporary and low-wage workers and to ensure that they have access to the information and resources they need to keep the gig economy accountable.

The position of SoCal Attorney is open to folks you know who may be interested!

And We’re Seeking a New Legal Fellow!

We are excited to announce that we are hiring for a new legal fellow to join our team at Worksafe, Oakland! Please forward the hiring announcement to folks you know who may be interested!

The position of SoCal Attorney is open to folks you know who may be interested!

Workers' Rights Resource Center (WWRC) is looking to change the narrative around temporary workers and seasonal farm workers by supporting workers and communities impacted by the gig economy. Since WWRC was founded in 2016, WWRC has been leading efforts to fight for the rights and economic security for temporary and low-wage workers. WWRC is part of the California Alliance for Secure Employment (CASE), a coalition of organizations working to stop pollution and ensure economic security for temporary and low-wage workers.

Secretary of Labor Marty Walsh announced two weeks ago that the Biden administration will require all employers to report workplace injuries and illnesses. WWRC’s SoCal Attorney will help work with the community to support temporary and low-wage workers and to ensure that they have access to the information and resources they need to keep the gig economy accountable.

The position of SoCal Attorney is open to folks you know who may be interested!

And We’re Seeking a New Legal Fellow!

We are excited to announce that we are hiring for a new legal fellow to join our team at Worksafe, Oakland! Please forward the hiring announcement to folks you know who may be interested!

The position of SoCal Attorney is open to folks you know who may be interested!

Workers' Rights Resource Center (WWRC) is looking to change the narrative around temporary workers and seasonal farm workers by supporting workers and communities impacted by the gig economy. Since WWRC was founded in 2016, WWRC has been leading efforts to fight for the rights and economic security for temporary and low-wage workers. WWRC is part of the California Alliance for Secure Employment (CASE), a coalition of organizations working to stop pollution and ensure economic security for temporary and low-wage workers.

Secretary of Labor Marty Walsh announced two weeks ago that the Biden administration will require all employers to report workplace injuries and illnesses. WWRC’s SoCal Attorney will help work with the community to support temporary and low-wage workers and to ensure that they have access to the information and resources they need to keep the gig economy accountable.

The position of SoCal Attorney is open to folks you know who may be interested!

And We’re Seeking a New Legal Fellow!

We are excited to announce that we are hiring for a new legal fellow to join our team at Worksafe, Oakland! Please forward the hiring announcement to folks you know who may be interested!

The position of SoCal Attorney is open to folks you know who may be interested!

Workers' Rights Resource Center (WWRC) is looking to change the narrative around temporary workers and seasonal farm workers by supporting workers and communities impacted by the gig economy. Since WWRC was founded in 2016, WWRC has been leading efforts to fight for the rights and economic security for temporary and low-wage workers. WWRC is part of the California Alliance for Secure Employment (CASE), a coalition of organizations working to stop pollution and ensure economic security for temporary and low-wage workers.

Secretary of Labor Marty Walsh announced two weeks ago that the Biden administration will require all employers to report workplace injuries and illnesses. WWRC’s SoCal Attorney will help work with the community to support temporary and low-wage workers and to ensure that they have access to the information and resources they need to keep the gig economy accountable.

The position of SoCal Attorney is open to folks you know who may be interested!

And We’re Seeking a New Legal Fellow!

We are excited to announce that we are hiring for a new legal fellow to join our team at Worksafe, Oakland! Please forward the hiring announcement to folks you know who may be interested!

The position of SoCal Attorney is open to folks you know who may be interested!

Workers' Rights Resource Center (WWRC) is looking to change the narrative around temporary workers and seasonal farm workers by supporting workers and communities impacted by the gig economy. Since WWRC was founded in 2016, WWRC has been leading efforts to fight for the rights and economic security for temporary and low-wage workers. WWRC is part of the California Alliance for Secure Employment (CASE), a coalition of organizations working to stop pollution and ensure economic security for temporary and low-wage workers.

Secretary of Labor Marty Walsh announced two weeks ago that the Biden administration will require all employers to report workplace injuries and illnesses. WWRC’s SoCal Attorney will help work with the community to support temporary and low-wage workers and to ensure that they have access to the information and resources they need to keep the gig economy accountable.

The position of SoCal Attorney is open to folks you know who may be interested!