Reproductive Abuse

Reproductive abuse involves coercing or controlling decision-making regarding birth control, contraceptives, pregnancy, and childbirth.

The Supreme Court decision to overturn Roe v Wade is an example of reproductive abuse playing out on a systemic level - via state control over the bodies of people who can get pregnant. This decision impacts violence survivors across the U.S. Read more here.

"Know the Signs" ads

Our ads are designed to show examples of some often-unnoticed forms of relationship abuse: controlling money, invading privacy, constant criticism, and breaking stuff. Our ads speak directly to people who are using abusive behaviors, who may recognize their own actions in the scenarios provided - to encourage these individuals to self-reflect and reach out for help if they think they might be using abusive behaviors in their relationship(s). Please watch and share!

Your Partner's Safety

"My partner's safety is just as important as my own."
If this type of thinking isn't familiar to you, it could mean you have unhealthy or abusive beliefs about relationships. It's ok to ask for help to change, or just to learn more! You can call the 10 to 10 Helpline to chat confidentially with someone for free from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. MT: 877-898-3411. Follow our Instagram page to learn more about healthy relationships.
