Our scientists are monitoring the growth of the corals we planted and researching to improve our reef restoration methods and knowledge. We are constantly researching and looking for new areas to expand coral restoration project to achieve our mission. All our guests are able to actively participate during their stay. If you wish to join us and take action in this universal cause, write us to info@coralnation.org or simply visit www.coralnation.org for more information.

Emerging Destinations

- Emerging Destinations is thrilled to partner with the UCLA Capacity Building Center in supporting the Women in Action Network (WIAN) or initiative, focusing on empowering women's groups in Northern Ghana's Shea butter industry. With a shared passion for adventure and strong partnerships, we're excited about our upcoming venture: hosting the inaugural Upper West Region Shea Festival in Wa, Ghana, on April 27, 2024. This event isn't just a festival; it's a dynamic platform for these remarkable women to connect with potential buyers, access health services, and showcase their work broadly. We're appealing to friends and well-wishers for support to make this festival a success, aiming to provide each attending woman with a stipend for lost wages, transportation, and refreshments for their families. Donations can be made via the WIAN website here. Your contributions are vital in empowering these women and providing the necessary resources for the event. Join us in this significant effort to create a meaningful impact and elevate these incredible women.
