November 2021

Faculty Spotlight: Kate M. Chaffin

Kate M. Chaffin, MSSW, LAPSW, is Director of the Center for Academic Development and the Associate Director of the Career Advocates Program for Faculty & Staff. Kate holds a Bachelor of Social Work from the University of Tennessee. She launched the MSSW program at UT in 2004, and then worked as a forensic social worker in the court system until 2008. Kate completed her MSSW degree here at UT in 2007, and then continued on to graduate school at the University of New Orleans, where she completed her DSW degree in 2012. Kate has been a faculty member with the College of Social Work since 2007.

Kate also established the simulation, a project directed by a Senior of Practice (SOP) program which focuses on teaching and learning. As the director of academic partnerships, Kate continues to work with the College of Social Work and the National Social Work Education Program to support their capacity to support their institutional and local social work education programs.

Kate M. Chaffin, MSSW, LAPSW, is Director of the Center for Academic Development and the Associate Director of the Career Advocates Program for Faculty & Staff. Kate holds a Bachelor of Social Work from the University of Tennessee. She launched the MSSW program at UT in 2004, and then worked as a forensic social worker in the court system until 2008. Kate completed her MSSW degree here at UT in 2007, and then continued on to graduate school at the University of New Orleans, where she completed her DSW degree in 2012. Kate has been a faculty member with the College of Social Work since 2007.

Kate also established the simulation, a project directed by a Senior of Practice (SOP) program which focuses on teaching and learning. As the director of academic partnerships, Kate continues to work with the College of Social Work and the National Social Work Education Program to support their capacity to support their institutional and local social work education programs.

Kate M. Chaffin, MSSW, LAPSW, is Director of the Center for Academic Development and the Associate Director of the Career Advocates Program for Faculty & Staff. Kate holds a Bachelor of Social Work from the University of Tennessee. She launched the MSSW program at UT in 2004, and then worked as a forensic social worker in the court system until 2008. Kate completed her MSSW degree here at UT in 2007, and then continued on to graduate school at the University of New Orleans, where she completed her DSW degree in 2012. Kate has been a faculty member with the College of Social Work since 2007.

Kate also established the simulation, a project directed by a Senior of Practice (SOP) program which focuses on teaching and learning. As the director of academic partnerships, Kate continues to work with the College of Social Work and the National Social Work Education Program to support their capacity to support their institutional and local social work education programs.

Kate M. Chaffin, MSSW, LAPSW, is Director of the Center for Academic Development and the Associate Director of the Career Advocates Program for Faculty & Staff. Kate holds a Bachelor of Social Work from the University of Tennessee. She launched the MSSW program at UT in 2004, and then worked as a forensic social worker in the court system until 2008. Kate completed her MSSW degree here at UT in 2007, and then continued on to graduate school at the University of New Orleans, where she completed her DSW degree in 2012. Kate has been a faculty member with the College of Social Work since 2007.

Kate also established the simulation, a project directed by a Senior of Practice (SOP) program which focuses on teaching and learning. As the director of academic partnerships, Kate continues to work with the College of Social Work and the National Social Work Education Program to support their capacity to support their institutional and local social work education programs.

Kate M. Chaffin, MSSW, LAPSW, is Director of the Center for Academic Development and the Associate Director of the Career Advocates Program for Faculty & Staff. Kate holds a Bachelor of Social Work from the University of Tennessee. She launched the MSSW program at UT in 2004, and then worked as a forensic social worker in the court system until 2008. Kate completed her MSSW degree here at UT in 2007, and then continued on to graduate school at the University of New Orleans, where she completed her DSW degree in 2012. Kate has been a faculty member with the College of Social Work since 2007.

Kate also established the simulation, a project directed by a Senior of Practice (SOP) program which focuses on teaching and learning. As the director of academic partnerships, Kate continues to work with the College of Social Work and the National Social Work Education Program to support their capacity to support their institutional and local social work education programs.

Kate M. Chaffin, MSSW, LAPSW, is Director of the Center for Academic Development and the Associate Director of the Career Advocates Program for Faculty & Staff. Kate holds a Bachelor of Social Work from the University of Tennessee. She launched the MSSW program at UT in 2004, and then worked as a forensic social worker in the court system until 2008. Kate completed her MSSW degree here at UT in 2007, and then continued on to graduate school at the University of New Orleans, where she completed her DSW degree in 2012. Kate has been a faculty member with the College of Social Work since 2007.

Kate also established the simulation, a project directed by a Senior of Practice (SOP) program which focuses on teaching and learning. As the director of academic partnerships, Kate continues to work with the College of Social Work and the National Social Work Education Program to support their capacity to support their institutional and local social work education programs.