A Reflection from our Catholic Chaplain

Maria Johnson, our new University Catholic Chaplain, shares a personal reflection on the first Shabbat service at Tufts University. Maria highlights the importance of coming together, the significance of the interfaith center, and the beauty of unity during these times of transition. She acknowledges the challenges faced by those of color, particularly Sikh Americans, in the aftermath of 9/11 and the need for continued dialogue and understanding.

Maria concludes her reflection by emphasizing the need for grace and support during these challenging times. She invites the community to come together and find strength in the connections we make. Maria’s words serve as a reminder of the importance of coming together as a community and the power of empathy and understanding.
