Hello BV Chamber Members & Friends,

There are so many things I wanted to chat with you about today. I was going to fill you in on the Colorado Chamber Alliance Conference I attended last week. AMAZING to connect with CEOs from chambers across the state, and learn about the many ways they work to benefit their communities. As a newbie to chamber world, I gained huge insight and inspiration about this work.

I wanted to share my excitement about the possibilities for ai in the small business sector. The conference had two speakers who completely brought me to the next level of thinking about how to use these incredible tools for organization and efficiency. For small businesses with limited budgets and limited staff, where owners and managers always feel overwhelmed and over busy, it's an absolute must. We'll touch on this more at the Annual Members Meeting later this month. (don't forget to register).

But what I can't seem to look away from and what is filling my heart this week, is the horror and suffering of hurricane season in the southeastern US this year. Perhaps we could all say a collective prayer for our friends, loved ones, strangers, and for the animals and ecosystems bearing the burden of big, scary, reality altering catastrophe.

I think about how our community would respond in such a circumstance.

I'm trying to spare you my diatribe and soapbox about the cultural failure to reverse climate chaos and the audacious hope I still do have that government and business leaders and the people can come together to solve problems big and small, nationally, globally, and in our little town.

With love and hope,

Liz
