NEW! Faculty Personnel Tools: Join us virtually on June 9 and 6 for vendor demonstrations of faculty personnel tools. These tools will help administrative personnel streamline new hire review, promotion, and tenure. Hear directly from the vendors, see the tools in action, and ask questions about their functionality and usability! Please note that faculty, staff, administrators, and students cannot directly engage with vendors. RSVP and get the Zoom link and details.

THIS WEEK! Student Experience Surveys: The end-of-term is approaching quickly and students will start filling out their experience surveys this week. Use this opportunity to help ensure you get a range of responses, such as providing class time in week 8 to review student surveys and expressing genuine interest in receiving feedback.

The Faculty Success: Inclusive Recruitment and Retention Summer Retreat Registration has been closed and is not available to view. On April 26, more than 100 tenure track and career faculty, academic leaders, and campus leaders across the university converged to recognize, learn about, make connections around, and provide input into our ongoing inclusive recruitment and retention efforts. Thank you to all who participated.

IMPORTANT POLICY REMINDERS

Core Education Core Requirements: This is the last term to submit Core Education requirements for graduation through the expedited summer process. If you’d like support during the proposal development process, please contact Jan Barrett by June 16.

Merit Policies: Until need to have your updated merit policies (both faculty-appointed and dean-appointed mentorship completed and submitted to the Office of Provost by June 15). If you are unsure whether your faculty is updated yet, be sure to check with your department or unit head this week.

NEWS & OPPORTUNITIES

NEW! CATI Teaching and Artificial Intelligence: The Teaching Engagement Program invites letters of interest in a stipended (10K) Teaching and AI CATI (Community Accelerating the Impact of Teaching) to join colleagues to discuss how your own teaching is evolving and how UO’s teaching and learning culture can evolve—in light of the rapid improvement in accessibility and wide adoption of AI tools such as ChatGPT. Letters of interest due June 16.

OER Grant Opportunity: Open Oregon Educational Resources invites faculty interest in the OER Grant Opportunity to submit course materials costs in lower division courses. This opportunity aligns with the university’s textbook affordability strategic plan. Apply by June 29.

EVENTS & WORKSHOPS

Neurodiversity and Educational Inclusion Affinity Group: This monthly virtual affinity group discussion is a space for neurodiverse instructors (including students with undiagnosed neurodivergence like autism, ADHD, dyslexia, bipolar, etc.) to positively connect and share resources, strategies, questions, and scholarship around matters that are important to you. Register here for the upcoming meeting date (June 29).

New faculty programs: Will you be welcoming new faculty into your unit this fall? Read more about all the new faculty programs, designed for the first 3 years at UO regardless of rank, and keep the following dates in mind:

- September Institute for New Faculty (Sept 11-13): Career and tenure track faculty in their first 3 years at UO will be introduced to UO’s culture of inclusion, teaching, mentorship, scholarship and leadership.
- New Faculty Orientation (Sept 18): All new faculty (Oct 2022-Sept 2023) are invited to meet campus leaders, engage in departmental strengths and support shared in scholarship and teaching at UO, and learn some tips for developing a network of mentors.
