Why join a Greek Organization?

- Membership in a fraternity or sorority is a lifelong commitment; relationships created during college last well into the future. Fraternities and Sororities provide students with opportunities to further develop leadership, communication, networking, and decision-making skills and gain confidence.

- At their cores, Fraternities and Sororities are philanthropic organizations steeped in decades of established tradition and service. The men and women of these organizations dedicate themselves to bettering the lives of others on campus and in our community through service and leadership development. Fraternities and Sororities also provide a means for students to develop and maintain personal and professional connections that can last a lifetime.

- Fraternities and sororities allow students to meet many people through social events, service projects, and educational opportunities. Students can immerse themselves in a community of like-minded individuals who share their interests and goals.

- Fraternity and Sorority Life helps students to get involved in ways that can be both fun and educational.

A Message from ROTC

My name is Tristin Rodriguez, and I am a second-year student at the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse. I am also a registered member of the ROTC program (UWL, WSU, Viterbo, & St. Olaf). I wanted to introduce myself & the ROTC program to you.

The University of Wisconsin-La Crosse Rotational Officer Training Corps (ROTC) program is a unique opportunity that offers students a chance to learn and experience leadership and military training. The program is open to both military science majors and non-majors. The ROTC program provides students with the opportunity to earn a commission in the U.S. Army upon completion of the program.

The ROTC program at UWL includes the Army ROTC program and the Army National Guard ROTC program. The Army ROTC program is open to both men and women and offers a variety of courses and leadership opportunities. The Army National Guard ROTC program is open to both men and women and offers a variety of courses and leadership opportunities.

The ROTC program at UWL is designed to prepare students for leadership roles in the U.S. Army. The program provides students with the opportunity to learn about the military and to develop leadership, communication, and decision-making skills.

In addition to the ROTC program, UWL offers a variety of programs and resources to help students succeed. The University of Wisconsin-La Crosse offers a range of academic and extracurricular activities to help students develop their skills and prepare for future careers.
