How do you get involved?

beyond graduation.

- Membership in a fraternity or sorority is a lifelong commitment; relationships created during college last well past graduation. These relationships go beyond the college years and provide a great support system to have after graduating. Many students and alumni say that the friendships and social skills they developed while participating in Greek life have served them well in the professional world.

- Fraternities and sororities strive to enhance your college experience by facilitating your personal growth and development. They host numerous events and activities that allow you to socialize and meet many different people on campus. You will quickly become connected to the university and its traditions.

- Fraternities and sororities allow students to tap into the available resources. Through volunteerism, students can develop leadership, communication, and organizational skills.

- Fraternities and sororities are philanthropic organizations steeped in decades of tradition. Their community service is required, and the organization is dedicated to giving back to the local community.

On September 7th we will be hosting a group that aims to be the best. There are numerous personal and financial benefits to joining the Army. Army ROTC's motto is "Leadership Excellence," which means that as a U.S. Army Cadet, you will be a part of a team that graduates leaders of the Army, think of it like a test drive. Enroll in MS 101 and you will get an authentic experience of what it means to be a member of the Army, and life skills that will be beneficial for any career path. Everyone was incredibly welcoming. You can participate in ROTC with no obligation to join the school's ROTC program. The Army ROTC program is open to any major and all students. In ROTC, I made amazing friendships, and from the very beginning, I knew that I wanted to be a part of this program. I highly recommend giving ROTC a try, even if you are not sure about it.
