GIVING OPPORTUNITIES

Marketing? Serve as a Social Media Intern with the Honey W. Nashman Center to help us tell our story on social media platforms and build our online audience! The ideal candidate is a student who possesses both strong writing and design skills while fostering neighborly relationships. In these times, while we maintain our focus on these partnerships, favoring instead opportunities for students to use and develop their academic and civic engagement skills while earning academic credit.

GW CODERS

GW CODERS is a student organization that brings together students to collaborate on coding projects and share their experiences! They meet on Fridays via Zoom starting at 11:00am ET. For more information, please visit www.gwcoders.com.

ARTREACH FALL CLASSES

ARTREACH FALL CLASSES will be held virtually via Zoom and start in mid-September. There are 5 classes available with different art mediums and 16 spots per class. The classes are for 20 students and are open to anyone! We have two human trafficking awareness class that addresses social justice issues and a contemporary art class that explores found objects, mixed media, and socially engaged art. For more information, please visit www.artreachgw.org.

SOCIAL JUSTICE

D.C. CHILDREN LEARN

The Honey W. Nashman Center has hosted a summer middle school Changemaker program staffed by ten outstanding GW students; another 30 GW students served as tutors and mentors for DC Public School students -- all aimed at incorporating social-emotional learning into the academic curriculum. With D.C. Public Schools and many charters holding classes virtually, we have spent our summer working on ways to continue to meet our partners’ needs and mission and to engage GW faculty and students in powerful community-engaged learning experiences. One example, is described in the GW Today article "Three GW students take a unique approach to creative expression and social justice." This innovative program, led by GW students, uses art to help students understand and address issues of discrimination and privilege. Were you moved to tears, to action, to insight? We’d love to hear from you!

HEALTHY, EXCITED YOUTH

HEALTHY, EXCITED YOUTH offers virtual opportunities with professionals in the DC community to examine ourselves to address any implicit or underlying bias. One new initiative is a partnership with the GW Black Student Union and Sociology on an action-research project to rethink DC policing and youth. Please visit www.healthyexcitedyouth.org to learn more.

MUTUAL AID GROUP

MUTUAL AID GROUP is an informal network of neighbors working together to help each other with daily needs. If you are in need of childcare, grocery services, or transportation, please contact your neighbors! To join the network, please contact us at info@healthyexcitedyouth.org.

A COMMUNITY SPOTLIGHT

GW STUDENTS HELP A.C. CHILDREN LEARN SOCIAL JUSTICE

The Honey W. Nashman Center for Civic Engagement and Public Service has created a new summer internship program to engage students in social justice and civic engagement work. This pilot program is designed to provide meaningful, real-world experience for students interested in pursuing careers in social work, public policy, and nonprofit management.

To apply, email info@gwi-wash.org.

The Honey W. Nashman Center for Civic Engagement and Public Service is a 501(c)3 non-profit organization registered in the District of Columbia, and our mission is to promote civic engagement and public service through the development of student leadership and career readiness.

Honey W. Nashman Center for Civic Engagement and Public Service