INTERNSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

In the midst of the pandemic, we have found new ways to partner with community organizations, build reciprocal partnerships, engage and fully embrace individuals from all backgrounds, and address systemic racism and to support equity: we focus our programs and projects to build respectful, rich relationships, we recognize that a) such relationships can be built through fundraising, and b) the skills while fostering neighborly relationships. In these times, while we maintain our focus on these partnerships, favoring instead opportunities for students to use and develop their academic and civic skills, and build your professional networks. GW Coders is a community that brings together students and faculty to apply computational and data analytics skills in research.

GW CODERS

GW Coders will meet virtually every Friday at 11:00am ET to provide a network for students and faculty to apply computational and data analytics skills in research.
